School district may take out its own insurance

By DAVID LELAND

WEARY OF ever-escalating insurance premiums, Carmel Unified School District officials are taking

'It finally hit us this year that this is crazy. We're taking a big step.'

drastic measures to combat the on-going problem of skyrocketing healthcare costs.

On May 1, CUSD Supt. Bob Infeise notified Monterey County Schools Insurance Group (MCSIG) that the district may withdraw from the joint powers agreement, providing a sweeter deal can be found.

"It finally hit us this year that this is crazy," said Infeise, referring to insurance premiums that have risen 89 percent during the past four years, from $653,374 to $1.3 million annually. "We're taking a big step."

The district has until July 1 to officially back out of the MCSIG plan; it remains covered until that time.

The MCSIG program is authorized under a joint powers agreement provided for by state legislation. Each district is represented on the board of directors, with offices headquartered in Salinas.

Despite CUSD receiving several proposals which, on the surface at least, appear to lower annual premiums by as much as $400,000, MCSIG Executive Director Cliff Weisner cautioned the district against leaving the nest.

"I want to talk to them and give them some advice," he said. "They could put themselves in jeopardy in future years."

Weisner, adding that Chualar Unified School District in South County is also considering alternate coverage, said larger group plans offer stability.

In other words, under a small group plan a district does not have the luxury of making a large number of claims in a year without suffering higher premiums the following year.

'I want to talk to them and give them some advice. They could put themselves in jeopardy in future years.'

— Cliff Weisner

— MCSIG

"The whole idea behind pooling is to share the risk," Weisner said.

Moreover, Weisner said MCSIG only charges 4 percent of the claim amount in administrative fees, while private insurance companies typically charge as much as 15 percent.

"It's almost impossible for them (CUSD) to do better outside the joint powers agreement," he said.

Insurance premium dollars with MCSIG are invested by the county treasurer, with earnings put back into the fund, Weisner said.

Infeise said he looks at MCSIG's soaring premiums, which are slated to rise as much as 20 percent next year, and wonders what there is to lose by changing providers.

"What choice do we have but to look for alternate coverage," he said. "We'd be remiss if we didn't look around."

Taking a larger view indicates dwindling reserves in the CUSD budget as insurance costs rise.

In 1987-88, the district maintained a prudent reserve of $1.1 million, while projections for 1990-91 drop to only $291,351.

Infeise said that his goal is to maintain between $600,000 and $700,000 in cash reserves.

THUS FAR, the leading candidate in assisting CUSD in its conundrum is Monterey-based Helian Health Group.

While not an insurance broker, Helian puts together a total package for clients that includes insurance, creating preferred provider organization and a utilization review process.

Infeise said now is a time to attempt to keep services up and costs down.

"This is the Cadillac of plans," said Infeise, referring to the MCSIG program. "It covers everything."

District employees, who receive the benefit as part of their contract, pay only $2 per doctor visit and a $75 deductible on major medical expenses.

"Even high-tech companies don't get this type of coverage," Infeise said. "With this plan you can get a hangnail, go to the doctor and it doesn't cost you anything."

Infeise added that he has worked unsuccessfully with Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula to receive preferred provider service.

Under that plan, employees from the district who received treatment at CHOMP

Fruchter given probation for misrepresenting artist

A JUDGE in federal court on Wednesday sentenced Carmel resident Robert Fruchter to three years probation for misrepresenting French artist Paul Valere's accomplishments.

In addition, U.S. District Court Judge Spencer Williams fined Fruchter $70,000 and mandated 100 hours of community service work.

Community service work will entail lecturing students on art and art history under the supervision of his parole officer.

"He's supposed to be quite knowledgeable in that area," Williams said, after sentencing.

Charges stemmed from a biography of Valere Fruchter supplied Simic Galleries, which was found to contain false information about the artist's accomplishments and awards.

"That may have influenced people to buy the art," said Williams, adding that the paintings' worth has not increased as much as patrons were lead to believe.

While federal problems for Fruchter are over, he is still feuding with Simic Galleries on a local level, having sued Simic for non-payment of proceeds of sale of Valere's paintings.

The gallery counter-sued Fruchter saying that the misrepresentation cancelled any agreement the two may have had.

Meanwhile, the county District Attorney's office has filed a complaint against Simic Galleries for intentionally misrepresenting Valere.

The gallery has amended the biography and claims that it too was duped by Fruchter. Simic Galleries has notified customers that refunds are available to those who purchased Valere paintings.

In a statement released Wednesday afternoon, Simic Galleries vice president Edward King said:

"Fruchter's actions jeopardized our community and the art industry. All galleries should be careful in their dealings with the information that is provided to them. This issue was blown out of proportion; the facts have been known for some time and this resolution of the case could have occurred much sooner. The artist, Paul Valere, and his family suffered greatly from this ordeal."

Winning form

BRAD HAWTHORNE of Oakland "breezed" to his third Big Sur International Marathon win Sunday morning with a clocking of 2:25:03, well beyond his own course record of 2:16:39 set in 1987, but a full 10 minutes ahead of his closest pursuer, Jose Santiago of Anaheim. Hawthorne first battled Isaac Silva, also of Anaheim, for several miles, then Santiago took him on as Silva faded. Hawthorne then kicked it high gear around the 17-mile mark to win. Kimberly Shaffer-Bruyn won the women's race with a 2:56:19 time. Runners were hampered by a strong headwind in the early goings of the race, which affected the final times. For more on the race, turn to page 18. (Mac McDonald photo.)

Hats off!

Dear Editor:

Hats off to Ms. Victoria Gilbert, drama instructor at Carmel High School, and her very talented "thespians", on their outstanding performance of The Diary of Anne Frank.

The exceptional professionalism exhibited by the actor, actresses and production staff is a tribute not only to this drama troupe and their director-teacher but also to high school students, in general.

Thanks to the group for an enjoyable evening of theater and best wishes in their future endeavors.

Carmel alert

Dear Editor:

The planning commission will meet on May 9 at 3:30 p.m. in Carmel City Hall to discuss, among other matters, whether or not to allow two houses to be built at the eastern end of 11th Street.

One of the proposed houses would be built within the confines of Mission Trail Park, the other would border the park. The variances which must be ruled upon include: approval of greater than 30-degree slope; and the approval of the Coastal Commission.

Furthermore, building on these lots (Parcels C and D of Block 128), would result in the destruction of a beautiful forest of pine and oak. Everyone opposed to the granting of these variances should write the planning commission and attend the May 9 meeting.

Possible solutions

Dear Editor:

On Feb. 20, 1990 the Monterey County Board of Supervisors set forth some proposals directed to possible solutions for the serious problems concerning the shortage of water in Monterey County. For this I applaud them.

Now I would like to see the board:

1. Look at all aspects of water management on a countywide basis — no politics. The board should only set policy.

2. Establish a county agency to be in charge of all county water matters — conservation, drinking water, irrigation, storm and flood control, reclamation and sewer. One agency acting as an independent unit can communicate better and accomplish more than multiple agencies in less time and at a lower cost.

3. Set realistic goals for both short-term and long-term needs and solutions. Long before dams can be built much can be accomplished by reclamation, desalinization, collection of rainwater and adherence to the water conservation plan for Monterey County.

4. Establish what we can afford and what we will have to pay.

5. Hold hearings and discussion groups to get community support for short-term and long-term answers. The Grand Jury report for 1989 is a good starting point.

To the citizens of Monterey County:

The board has finally taken the first step. Can we as a community develop momentum and consensus to support realistic answers to the water problems in the county? I think we should be able to.

Musical legacy

Dear Editor:

A special thank-you to the Pine Cone for the article on the new three-manual Schoenstein pipe organ that is currently being built and will be installed in the Church of the Wayfarer in early summer 1991.

I have been rummaging through my thoughts in an effort to think of ways that our community might assist in the financial efforts of purchasing this organ. We are still about $25,000 short of our goal.

There are many folks, over the years, who have given us a fabulous musical legacy. It occurred to me that some of you might wish to purchase pipes for the organ either in memory of, or in honor of, them. A number of folks come to mind: Dr. and Mrs. Sandor Salgo, Clark Suttle, Haymo Taubert, Rachel Morton, Angie Machado, Fred Schaad, John Farr, Father H.M.M. Nicholas, Nancy Bowman — the list is limited only by your imagination. Robert Stanton was one of the first soloists in the Church of the Wayfarer.

Any gift is welcome. If you are interested in purchasing a pipe or series of pipes, information about this can be had by calling the Church of the Wayfarer, 624-3550.

Carmel admirer

Dear Editor:

Thank you for writing back to our fourth and fifth-grade class. (Mrs. K. Katz.) Mr. McDonald, I told my family about the letter our class got, and they are very happy about it, they said that it was nice of us to write to different places.

So would you kindly please send me some information and a map to your place, so when my family ask me where we want to go, I like us to visit The Carmel Pine Cone and Monterey Peninsula Review, Pacific Grove Monarch.

That would be a nice place to see, for I never think we seen that place yet.

Royal treatment

Dear Editor:

After an exhaustive and scientific study the reason for the necessity for the 30 cent stamp has become quite clear.

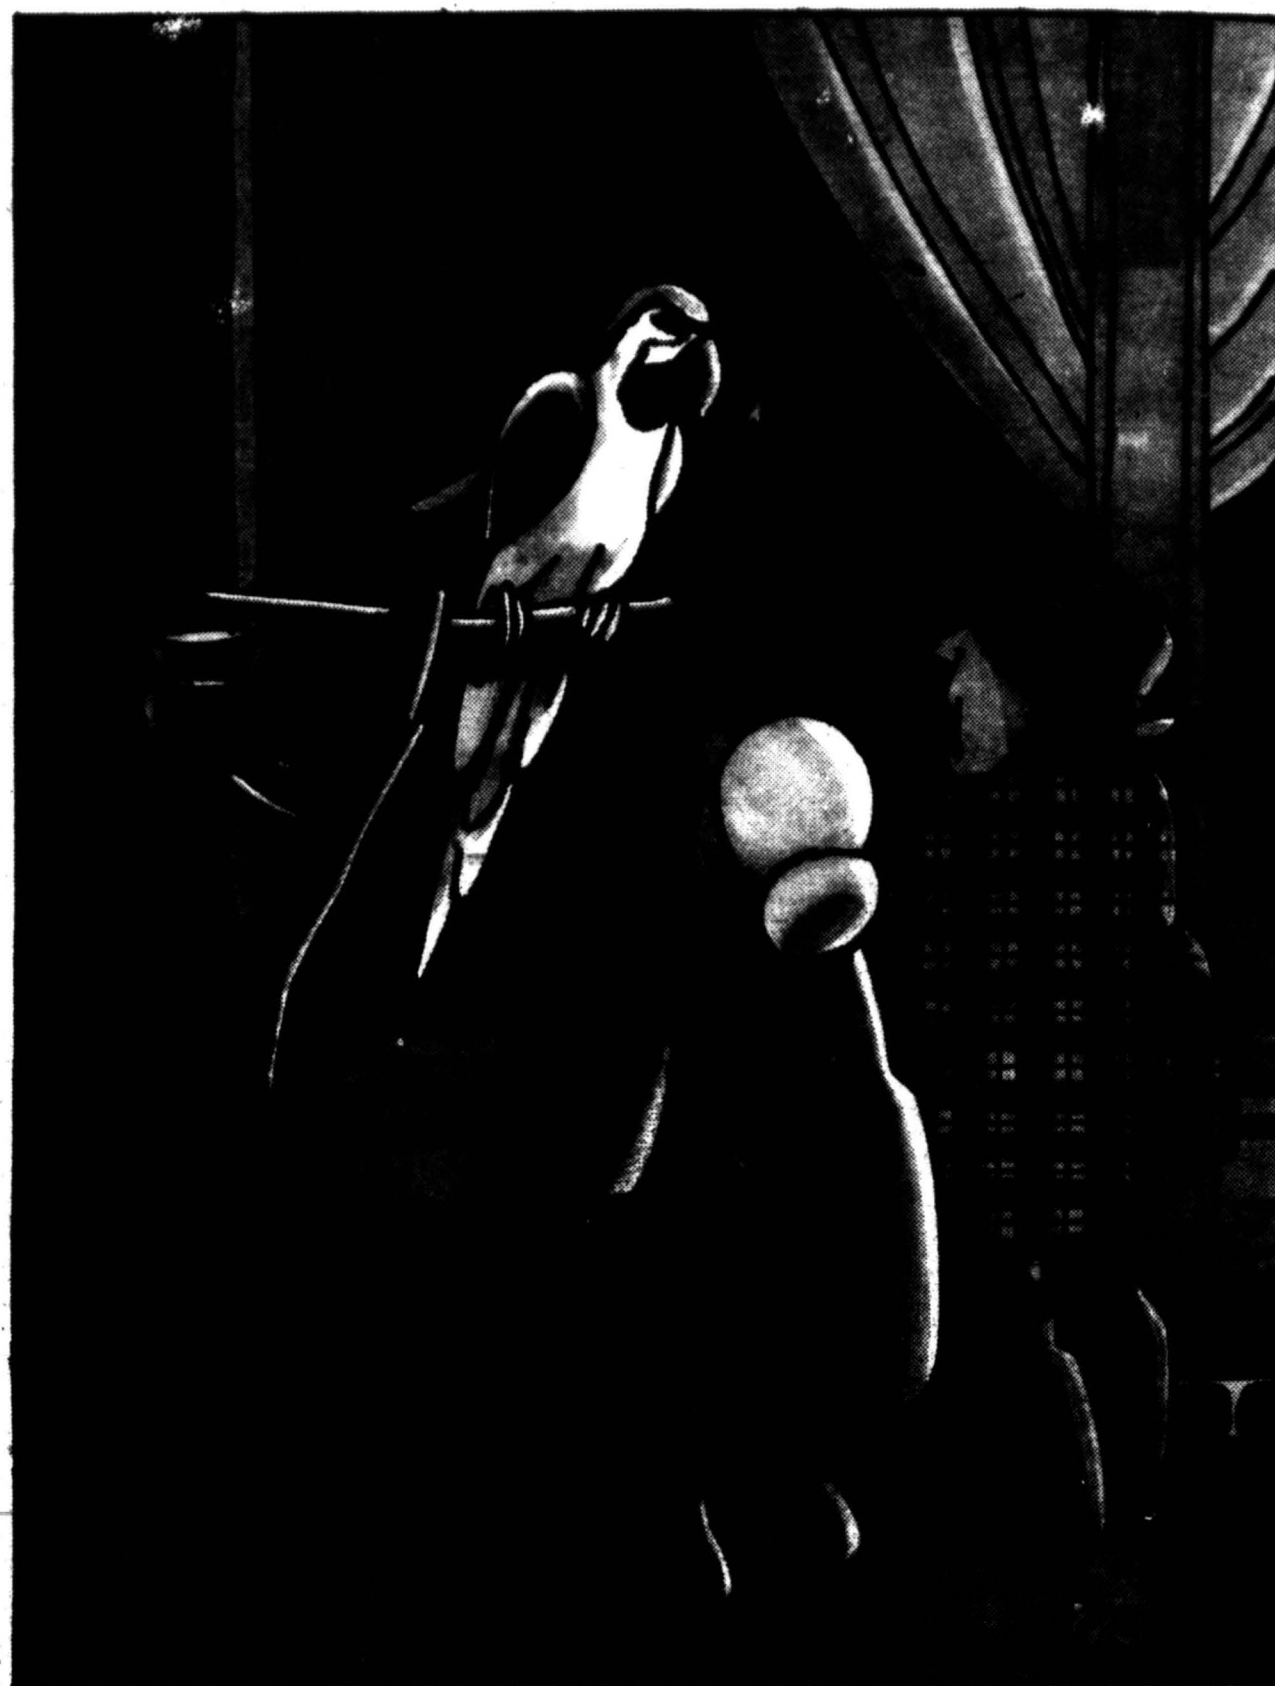

Let's suppose you write a letter to your next door neighbor and after affixing the proper postage you deposit it in your mail box which is located about 50 feet from the neighbor's box.

The carrier picks it up and delivers it to the post office in the mouth of the valley where it is sorted and commingled with lots of other similar letters. They then are hauled away to Salinas where they are resorted and postmarked and hauled back to the post office from which they came.

Why, if they have to be postmarked somewhere else than the post office at the mouth of the valley, they don't just haul them to the post office in Carmel Valley Village, is a mystery. It's much closer than Salinas.

Or better still why not buy a post-marking machine to use in the post office at the mouth of the Valley. It seems to me that would be cheaper than hauling all that mail to Salinas

BATES

"I think he said, 'Tourists come back.'" and back, to say nothing about the extra sorting.

Now let's see where is your letter, oh yes at the post office at the mouth of the valley, where it is resorted and finally delivered to your neighbor.

This letter gets the royal treatment. Most of us don't get to travel that much in a month.

Short honeymoon

Dear Editor:

Many of us business owners who do not live in Carmel-by-the-Sea, and thus are unable to vote in local elections, feel very much like the early Americans who cried "taxation without representation!" We certainly hope the newly elected council, and the organizations such as the Carmel Residents Association, enjoy their three-month honeymoon.

Come July when the taxes raised from local business create a woeful shortage and severe budgetary problems, many economically naive and fiscally ill-advised people will be wondering how to cope. It will be too late. We need politicians and community leaders who can work with, be sympathetic to, and fully understand the goose who lays the golden eggs for Carmel.

A little consideration

Dear Editor:

I am in sympathy with the articulate fourth-graders from River School because I also have a complaint about a dog.

Although I have never seen it or his companion I deduce from the size of his feces that he is a rather large dog. After cleaning up several times I hung a plastic bag on a tree near the street assuming that the owner kept forgetting to bring one. (Responsible dog owners clean up after their dogs!)

After several more frustrating experiences, I put up a sign asking the dog owner to please use the plastic bag to clean up after his dog. The next day 18 inches from the tree was another large pile, so the obvious conclusion is that there is an illiterate or irresponsible dog owner or a dog who is being illegally let out on his own.

I have asked the police department to keep a look out for a dog running loose, since you can't tell an illiterate person by looking at him.

I would very much appreciate it if you have an illiterate neighbor you would tell him about my letter, or if the owner of the dog is not illiterate would he please be considerate of the neighbors and obedient to the law of the town.

'Granny unit' issue is sent back to planners

By NANCY HILLS

THE CARMEL City Council Tuesday night passed the subordinate unit ball back to the planning commission, approved a trial resident parking sticker program on Torres Street and found Sixth Avenue and Lincoln Street an acceptable location for the Murphy house.

It also approved signing of the documents to create a joint powers authority that will collect and distribute the funds for paramedic and emergency ambulance services.

Despite the change of one councilmember, the council, meeting May 1, found itself back in a lottery situation when dealing with the subordinate units. Three of the five councilmembers have subordinate units on their property or within their homes, disqualifying them from voting on or discussing the issue.

Brooks, who won Elinor Laiolo's vacated seat in April, has a subordinate unit in her home as did Laiolo. Mayor Jean Grace and councilmember Jim Wright also have second units.

The council was to conduct its second reading on an ordinance that would legalize existing subordinate units and permit new ones only in cases of hardship or necessity.

However, the rule of necessity allows a councilmember to vote on an issue if needed for a quorum, but cannot discuss the issue. That councilmember is chosen by drawing straws, as was done on Tuesday night with Grace winning the draw.

The two members of the council that can discuss the issue — Ken White and Bob Fischer — are divided on provisions in the ordinance. White had originally voted for the new law in March, with protest, but when it came to the second reading in April, found he could not vote in favor of the ordinance.

White wants the law to mandate that one of the units, either the primary or subordinate unit, on the property be owner-occupied. He has stated in the past that without that provision, he feels that the residential character of the area would be jeopardized and that it would make enforcement of the transient rental ordinance "a nightmare."

Fischer maintains that to require owner-occupancy would reduce the low- to moderate-income housing stock in Carmel, since subordinate units perform that function, and the transient rental ordinance will stand on its own merits.

Both White and Fischer expressed concern about the fact the law would allow a property owner to demolish both the primary and subordinate units and rebuild with a subordinate unit. White has stated that he feels that makes the property virtually zoned for a duplex.

The council, in a 3-0 vote, decided to remand it back to the planning commission to discuss those issues, though the commission has already recommended against an owner-occupancy requirement.

THE FIRST Murphy house may have found a home and a use if certain conditions are met.

The council agreed to the idea of moving the house to one of the city lots at Lincoln Street and Sixth Avenue, but the Harrison Memorial Library board holds a 17-year lease on one of the lots. The library board must agree to the move and rearrangement of the lot configuration.

Also, one of the conditions is that the group, Save the First Murphy, have the moving costs paid for before the house is placed on city property. City Attorney Don Freeman advised the council that all debts needed to be paid to avoid the possibility of a lien on city property.

Enid Sales, the group's organizer, told the council they have raised $6,000 of the $15,000 to $13,000 needed to move the house from its current location on Mission Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues.

Property owner Stella Biazon has donated the house to the group but plans to demolish it if they are unable to get it off her property.

The group hopes the house will be used as a community "club house," an idea that received verbal support from the council.

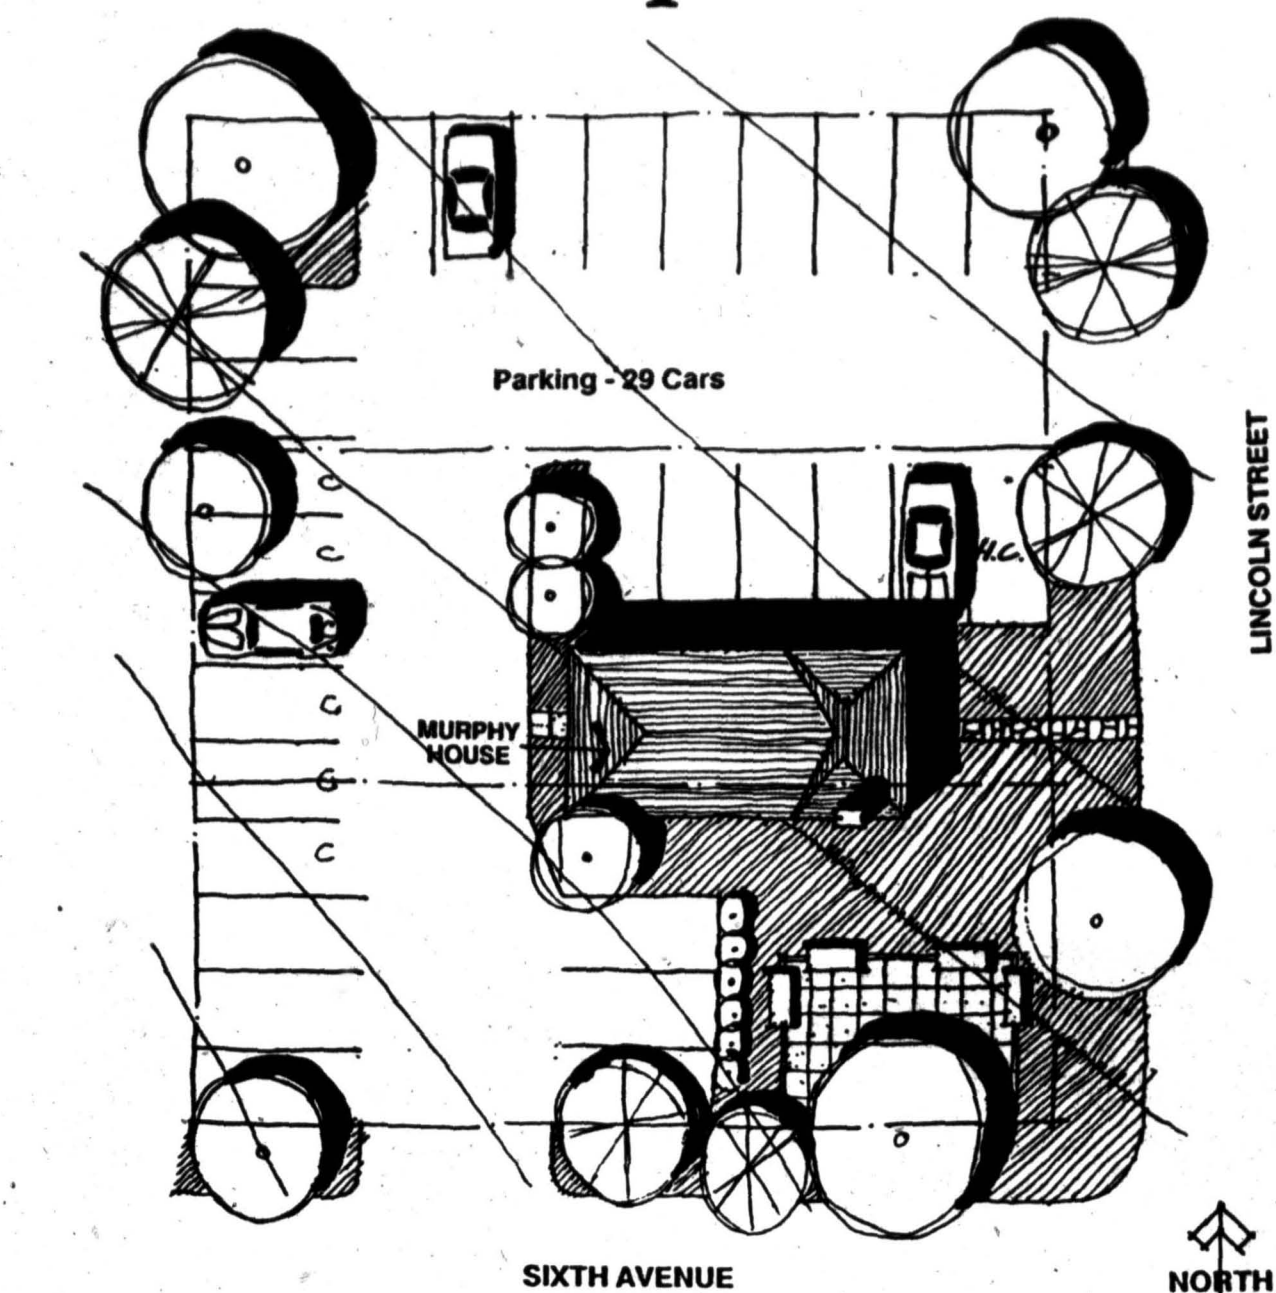

The council has given the group 60 days to raise the money and make arrangements for the move.

Architect Brian Congleton, who has donated his time to the project, drew plans of possible rearrangement of the parking on the lots and placement of the house for the council. In one, the city would actually gain parking spaces.

The house was the first home built by M.J. Murphy in Carmel. It was constructed in 1902.

The house is currently in a dilapidated condition and in need of extensive renovation.

Biazon told the council that she had rented

ONE OF the possible configurations for locating the first Murphy house on city-owned lots on the corner of Lincoln Street and Sixth Avenue developed by architect Brian Congleton and presented to the council.

the former Emil Norman Gallery in front of the house because she needed the money to pay taxes and that she wanted to know the time limit for moving the house.

Fischer voted against the motion because it allowed a review of the time limit.

"I want a firm 60 days," he said.

Once the vote was taken, Councilmember Jim Wright told the group that "the city is taking this with a lot of good faith. We can't leave the building in its present condition. For the future of preservation in Carmel, it is important that (the group) make this come off right."

In other business, the council:

- Voted to have a pilot residential parking permit program in the vicinity of Torres Street and Eighth Avenue. The neighborhood had asked for the permit program because the installation of the pay-for-parking lot at Sunset Center had pushed those cars into their neighborhood.

"We feel we are a special case because of our proximity to Carmel Plaza and because the Sunset Center lot was once designated parking destination for people," said Rose-Eve Lewis.

People in the neighborhood are unable to park on their own street, she said.

The council, after hearing from parking committee chairman Alan Williams that the committee would like to reserve the right to change the pilot program, went ahead and approved the pilot residential parking permit on that street. A residential parking permit program would allow only persons with residential stickers to park on the street.

During the meeting Fischer stated that the Sunset Center lot would probably revert back to the city within a year, when the lease was up for the private company operating the lot.

Freeway foes try to enlist feds' aid in their fight

By DAVID LELAND

HATTON CANYON Freeway opponents last week continued their attack upon the proposed roadway, calling upon the Federal Highway Administration's top legal gun for support and sympathy.

Joining activists Noel Mapstead of Carmel and David Larkin of Phoenix, Ariz., in a meeting room within the courthouse in Monterey were FHWA Chief Counsel Larry Thompson, flown in from Washington, D.C., and representatives from Caltrans and the state division of the FHWA.

"It was a relaxed meeting," said Larkin, referring to the hour-plus gathering, at which time the duo outlined 24 environmental points that they say have been neglected in current studies.

Information presented at the meeting was similar to that of two weeks ago, when the two travelled to Washington, D.C. to convince bureaucrats to address potential environmental catastrophes if the freeway is built.

Mapstead and Larkin, along with a large number of local residents and organizations, oppose plans for a four-lane freeway running through Hatton Canyon that would begin at Carpenter Street, transition through the canyon, have a major interchange at Carmel Valley Road and see a new bridge at the Carmel River.

"I thought it was basically an opportunity for me to learn more about the Hatton Canyon Freeway," said Thompson, who walked a portion of the canyon before the meeting. "I wanted to take a good look at it."

Mapstead is convinced that the county and Caltrans are errant in advocating the proposed $34 million project, when widening the existing Highway 1 could accomplish the task of freeing up traffic.

During a county Transportation Commission meeting held in March, Caltrans officials said that widening Highway 1 would alleviate traffic for up to 18 years.

Larkin claimed that plans for the Hatton Canyon Freeway are predicated upon future growth for the area and full build-out in the area's land use plan.

"It's really important that the public know all the facts," he said. "It's (Hatton Canyon Freeway) all based upon (traffic) projections from someone's imagination."

MAPSTEAD IS seeking a supplemental environmental impact report, citing previously unexplored environmental factors, such as increased wetland destruction in the canyon.

In its final environmental impact statement, now delayed until August, the state Department of Transportation is said to be relying on Caltrans' recommendation that a freeway through Hatton Canyon is the most effective thoroughfare.

Mapstead believes that precious wetlands will be forever lost if the freeway comes to fruition.

"This county is a necrophiliac because they want to destroy the last living ecosystem," said Mapstead, referring to wildlife living in the canyon.

But Thompson, who has promised to read the draft EIS in its entirety, is not convinced by Mapstead's argument.

"I'm not sure how much wetlands there are," he said this week from Washington. "(Also), it's a question of mitigation."

Thompson added that the draft EIS calls for one-for-one replacement of wetlands.

"The canyon is obviously a very beautiful area. I can see why Mr. Mapstead is so interested in preserving it," said Thompson, whose office is charged with reviewing the final EIS for its legal complexities. "But Carmel has a serious traffic problem."

Mapstead argues that, while Highway 1 may see its share of gridlock during the summer months and on weekends, it is far from being one of the county's more dangerous roadways.

The most hazardous road in the county is Highway 1 around Moss Landing, according to California Highway Patrol statistics.

Thompson is unsure, however, if widening Highway 1 in Carmel will serve any purpose.

"Unfortunately, there's not a lot of solution there," he said.

Thompson said he travels personally to inspect locales when questions of the environment or extreme controversy arise.

"I wouldn't say it's common, but it's not unusual," he said of last week's trip.

Despite the fact that he has not completely read the draft EIS, Thompson did not hold out much hope for Mapstead's plea for a supplemental EIS.

"A supplemental EIS is a pretty drastic step; he (Mapstead) would have to have a great deal of new information," Thompson said. "(Supplemental EISs) are a pretty limited occurrence; I would doubt there would be a need."

City to conduct repaving work on San Carlos

THE CARMEL Public Works Department will be repaving San Carlos Street from Eighth Avenue to 12th Avenue from May 7 to June 30.

During much of the work, the street will be closed to through traffic, so vehicles no higher than 12 feet 6 inches will be detoured onto Junipero Avenue between Eighth Avenue and Rio Road. Vehicles over 12 feet 6 inches in height will be detoured from Eighth Avenue to San Antonio to Santa Lucia to Rio Road.

Residents living in the construction area will have access to their homes and will receive individual notification of local traffic restrictions as the work progresses.

Public Works Director James Cullem said drivers are advised to remain alert to detour changes and the movement of heavy trucks during the construction period. Special caution must be exercised by vehicles detouring onto Junipero where trees close to the pavement edge and overhanging limbs restrict the movement of buses, campers and high vehicles, he said.

All problems or questions should be directed to the Carmel Public Works Department at 624-3543.

Fishburns bring dose of vigor into schools

By DAVID LELAND

ONCE AGAIN, Carmel Middle School officials are rejoicing after the yearly visit from retired teachers Warren and Allura Fishburn.

Since resigning from active duty two years ago, the duo has made their home in London, but have participated in a program allowing them to work as many as 30 days annually for the Carmel Unified School District.

It seems that a month serving the district only whets Principal Karl Pallastrini's whistle.

"I wish neither one (of them) had retired; they still have a lot to offer," Pallastrini said. "They're amazing."

Indeed, the Fishburns throw themselves into educational activities with a reckless abandon.

Take, for example, the updating of the library's vertical file, which consists of 16 file drawers containing varying research information ranging from prairie dogs and ghosts to satellites and the country of Madagascar.

"We realized last year that the vertical file needed to be updated," said Allura, who, in addition to serving as school librarian, taught social studies, Spanish, German and drama before retirement.

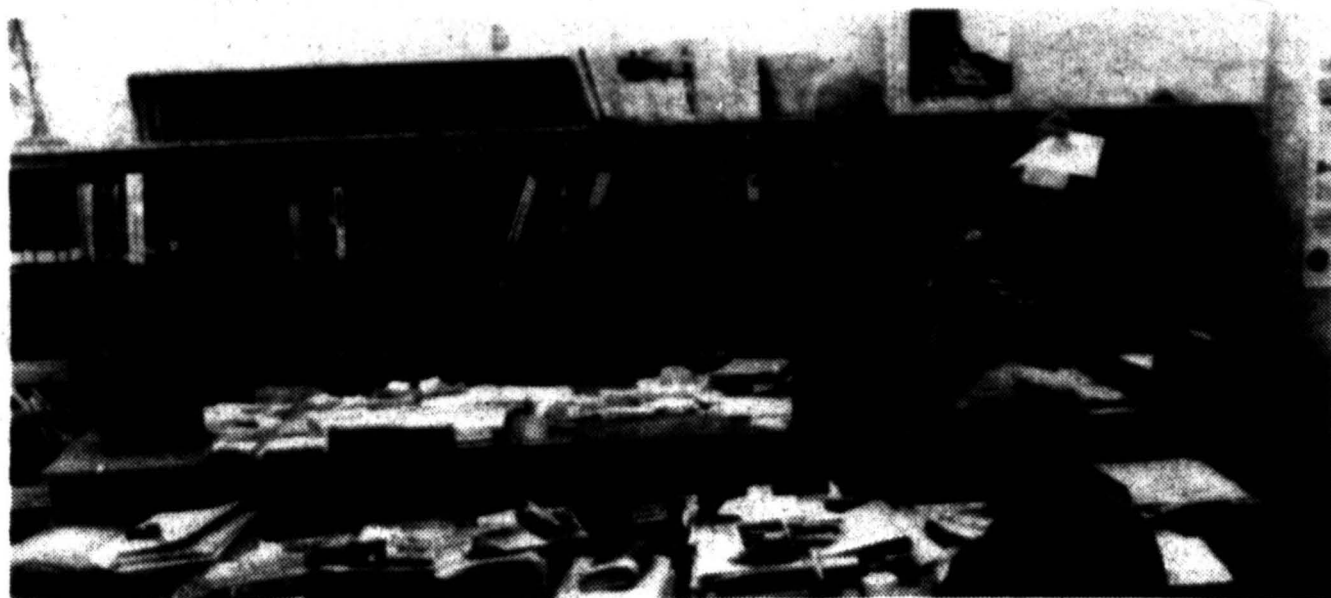

Warren instructed students in French, German and Spanish before leaving the district.

With that in mind, the husband-and-wife team spent part of their private time visiting tourist offices, the United Nations in Geneva and various travel agents in London flushing out information.

They also wrote the United Nations' office for each country and wrote each state in the union, asking that brochures be provided.

The Fishburns also collected magazines and newspaper articles from British publications to donate toward the cause.

Boxes and boxes of free literature piled up in their London flat.

SHORTLY AFTER arriving at Carmel Middle School to log in 30 days of instructional assistance, Allura and Warren Fishburn were faced with the unenviable task of organizing data for the library's vertical file. (Photo courtesy of Scott Rainer.)

The Fishburns then recruited friends and relatives who were visiting England to do their share and bring back portions of the cache.

"They brought back suitcases of stuff," Allura said. "When we got here we had huge piles."

Warren then spent part of his tenure sorting out and categorizing the data.

"Now the kids can find it and use it," said Allura, taking a break from her library skills classes. "The district has at least 1,000 pieces of information that are new, up-to-date and free."

During her library skills classes, Allura asks each student to fill in the blanks of an open letter from a country they are visiting, which forces them to utilize the vertical files.

Students are asked locate the country's capital, longitude, latitude, population and other various data.

The exercise bypasses otherwise-boring work.

Millicent Lawitzke, middle school librarian, credits the Fishburns for breathing new life into the library.

"Because of their current travels, they are very aware of what is going on," she said.

But for Allura, keeping up on library skills just makes plain sense.

"I learn something everyday," she said. "That's why I like working in the library."

SPCA puts call out to community for help with its funding woes

By NANCY HILLS

WHEN THAT bedraggled cat from nowhere or that sad-eyed dog someone left behind shows up on your doorstep, who ya gonna call?

Many, after hoping the problem will just disappear, call the local Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, a comforting name in any feathered or four-legged crisis.

Even if the call is to the city or county, it is eventually to the SPCA, because the organization contracts to do "pound" services for the county and most peninsula municipalities. But the SPCA is now in need, and while it is not showing up bedraggled on doorsteps, the call is going out from them to the community.

The organization has experienced a radical drop in contributions, bequests and life estates and will be cutting back on services, according to recent announcements from the SPCA.

"Of the 330,000 residents on the peninsula, less than 6,000 have contributed to the SPCA in the last two years," stated SPCA spokesman Jim Bennett.

This year, the organization had a $494,000 deficit and the SPCA board drained its reserves to pay the deficit. The 1990 budget has been cut by $200,000, about 15 percent, and that budget may have to be cut again by another 15 percent, according to the organization's information.

Though Monterey County and cities like Carmel pay the SPCA for pound services, the organization provided services and quality care beyond what the governmental agencies were paying for. Providing those services has also put a strain on the SPCA's resources.

Helping both the domestic and wild animals in the area is no small task. The sheer numbers of animals in need and people who call is staggering.

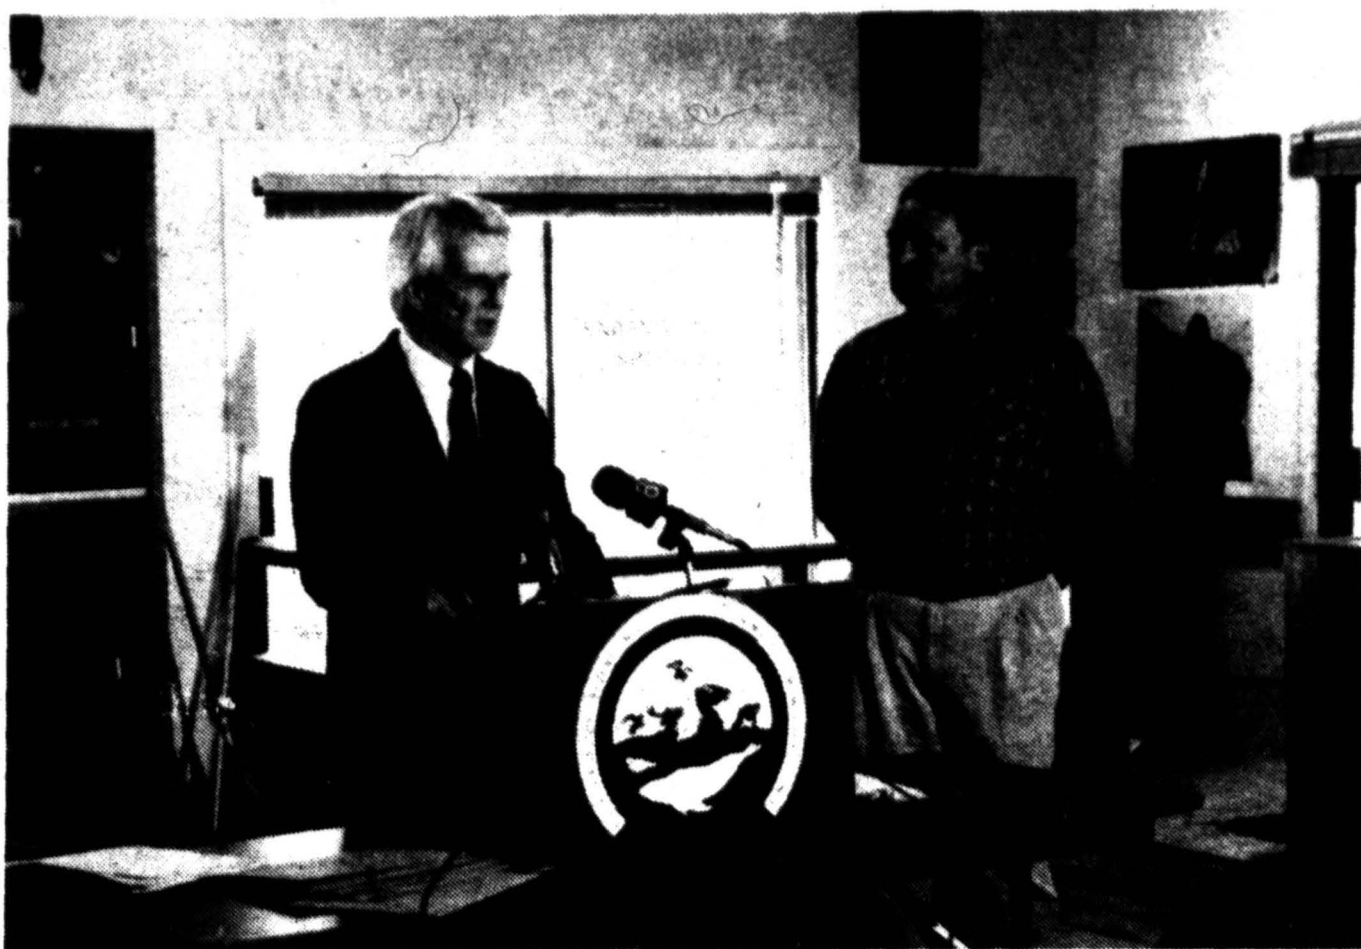

"We get hundreds of calls every day with every kind of question," Bennett said.

What happens to the bedraggled cat and the sad-eyed dog? The possibilities are not good. The shelter took in 5,552 cats in 1989. Of those, 76 were returned to their homes. 953 were adopted.

The rest, 4,523 cats and kittens, were euthanized.

Dogs have a better record. Last year there were 4,174 dogs brought to the shelter; 843 were returned, 953 were adopted and 2,247 were euthanized.

And those are just the dog and cat populations. The SPCA also handles horses, heifers, birds, rabbits, pigs — anything that is animal, not mineral, and not classified as homo sapien.

Its wildlife center is responsible for helping and rescuing land and sea animals found in dire straits.

Located on a 220-acre site across Highway 68 from the Laguna Seca Raceway — an almost poetic face-off — its location contributes to fund-raising problems, according to Rich Ward, executive director of the organization.

"Part of the dilemma in attracting substantial funding is the illusion that we are a wealthy organization because of our location," he explained.

CUSD may seek own insurance

would be billed less, thus lowering insurance payouts.

But CHOMP officials say they don't make deals.

"Anytime you offer a discount to one group, you have to shift the cost to someone else," said Will Bishop, vice president of financial services. "We don't think that's fair."

The move toward lowering insurance premiums has received support from CUSD teachers, who could see higher raises as financial stability enters the district's budget.

"We're totally in support in working with the district in seeking a decrease in healthcare costs," said Jim Agan, Carmel High School teacher and union representative. "The biggest concern to us is to get a handle on the exorbitant costs in the past couple of years."

But Weisner said the district will find rising premium costs no matter where it shops.

"It's not unusual to see 40 percent to 50 percent increases," he said, adding that inflation within medical services is partly to blame.

During the 1988-89 school year, MCSIG raised its premiums by almost 41 percent.

Weisner also pointed the finger at cost-shifting from the government, which is making lower Medical and Medicare payments to providers. Providers then pass that loss on to the consumer.

Infelise has grown so fatigued by rising healthcare costs that he is considering opening up a facility within the district.

"We're exploring the idea of starting our own healthcare clinic that will provide services that would negate some costly hospital visits," he said.

Infelise said either vacant schools, such as Carmelo, or one of the vacant lots owned by the district will be considered as clinic sites.

He likened the care to that of Doctors on Duty.

While the idea may seem far-fetched, Infelise is quite serious.

"If we can manage the new insurance program and keep costs down, we will take a very aggressive next step," he said.

SPCA seeking funding help

Peninsula residents may also have begun to take the facility, its workers and its services for granted. Many believe the SPCA is a governmental agency, funded by taxes or that it gets money from the national animal organizations people donate to.

"We are not a governmental agency," said Bennett. "We do not get money from national organizations."

The SPCA is only connected with the county and cities, including the city of Carmel, through a contract to offer pound services.

"The SPCA is a special group and will stay that way, but they need the support of the community," Bennett said.

The cuts will affect a variety of services, according to Ward.

Listed cuts include:

- Spay/neuter services will be decreased.
- Administrative department has been reduced.

- The wildlife center has gone from four employees to one full-time person and one part-time. That reduces the number of cases the center can handle.

- Humane investigations, which handles cases involving cruelty to animals, will not be increased by one person as planned. That also reduces the number of cases that the SPCA can investigate.

- The barn that housed animals for educational purposes has been closed. The organization, though, states it will continue to take in mistreated animals.

- The community outreach program has been cut back and the SPCA newsletter staff has been reduced.

For Carmel Animal Control Officer Valorie Henderson, working with the SPCA has been a good experience.

"The reason I like to call them when I need help is I can depend on them because they are qualified to deal with any situation that comes up," she said.

Henderson said that the agency works with her on marine and wildlife animal rescues — such as sea lions, otters, sea birds — and on any call which she needs assistance.

"If I need help, they're here in a heartbeat," Henderson said.

The SPCA also takes good care of the animals she must take in to their shelter, she said.

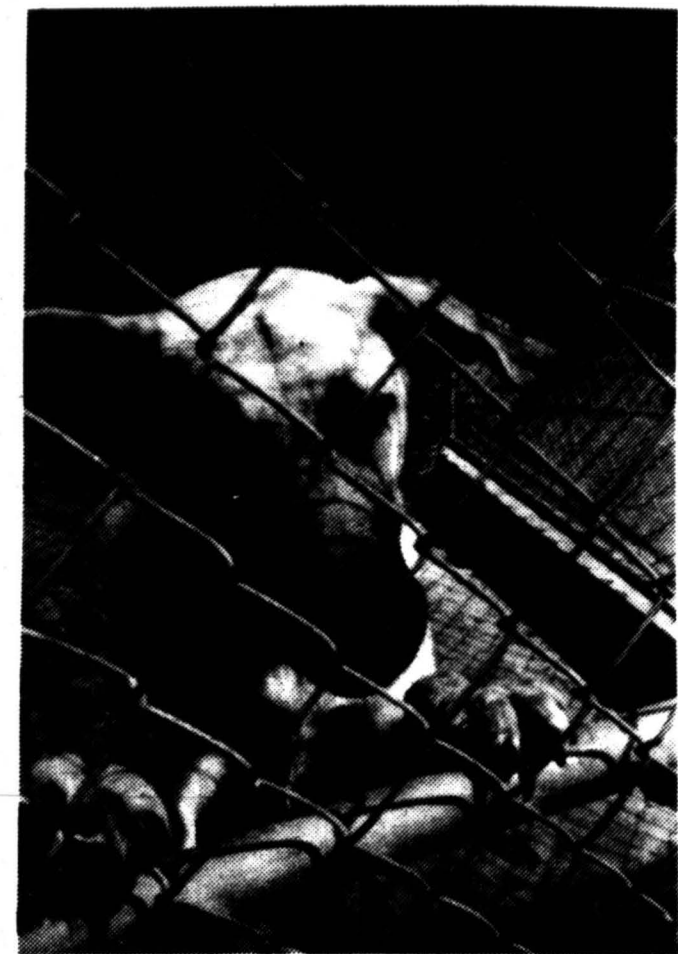

"They offer services we need and are convenient," Henderson added.

To help the community get to know the organization better, the SPCA is inviting the community out on Sunday, May 6 to picnic on the grounds, pets invited, and tour the facility.

The tours, which include the wildlife center, begin at 1, 2, and 3 p.m.

Storytelling for kids about animals is scheduled for 1:30, 2:30, and 3:30 p.m. in the education building.

The traditional annual blessing of the animals will take place at 4 p.m.

Russell remembered for his dedication and commitment

By NANCY HILLS

TEACHER, water board member and former Pacific Grove City Councilman Robert "Bob" Russell succumbed to liver failure and died April 28 at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco.

Russell, 48, had a liver transplant last year to replace his own liver, which had failed due to chronic hepatitis he contracted from a blood transfusion during cancer surgery in 1970s.

A memorial service is planned for 3 p.m. Sunday, May 6 at Carmel Presbyterian Church.

A highly respected teacher at Pacific Grove High School, Russell is probably best known to Carmel residents for his activities in regards to water issues. He is universally described as a dedicated and determined individual.

Russell was elected to the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board in November of last year while recuperating from his transplant surgery. He and Dale Hekhuis won the two available seats in a landslide.

Russell advocated a water meter moratorium, building a dam and pursuit of water supply projects while the dam is in progress. He was particularly interested in a grant program for residents to retrofit their homes to low-flow plumbing fixtures.

"He brought a true concern for the well-being of the community, he was articulate and direct and did his homework on the issues. He was supremely self-confident about the election," Hekhuis said. "When I asked him if he was at all worried, he said 'Well, I've got the support and I am going to win,' and as it turned out, he was right. He was a very determined person. When you talked to him you could see it in his eyes."

Water board chairman Dick Heuer said "he was devoted to the protection and service to this area and worked very hard at it. He was dedicated to improving our water supply and at the same time not allowing that to be a blank check for unlimited growth."

His vote, Heuer said, made the "new team (on the water board) work."

Another water board member, Jim Hughes, also served on the Pacific Grove City Council with Russell and was his neighbor for many years in Pacific Grove.

"He is going to be missed very much," Hughes said. "We didn't always agree politically but we had a mutual respect for each other. We were able to put our political differences aside."

"Probably the word that would sum him up would be dedicated — which made him a good teacher, good board member and good city councilman," he added. "He had intensity and tenacity — once he got his teeth into something he really went after it, but he was never so intense that he would lose his sense of humor."

Russell was particularly interested and active in the hiking and biking trail in Pacific Grove, was in favor of the new movie theater as well as — "of course," as Hughes says — environmental issues.

Russell's wife of two years, Linda, smiles at the characterization of him as intense, but said that was not his private image.

"That was the person on stage. At home, he was the most gentle, tender, kind man I have ever known. He had a very powerful belief in God and that is what carried him through so well. He knew he was taken care of," she said.

He lived to work at home, she said, and built the brick patio and laid the wooden floor in their new home in Mission Fields. Russell had moved from Pacific Grove to Mission Fields to find a home that could accommodate his four children and Linda's four children.

He wanted to participate in things like the water board and Pacific Grove. "He loved the peninsula. He was an environmentalist but also a traditionalist. He wanted us to be able to continue to survive but he didn't want to see it all get in the hands of a developers," she said.

On Monday afternoon, Pacific Grove High School conducted a memorial service after school in which Russell's students laughed and cried while telling stories and

BOB RUSSELL died April 27 in San Francisco. A memorial service is planned for 3 p.m. Sunday, May 6 at Carmel Presbyterian Church.

reminiscing about what he had meant to them.

The walls of the gym were filled with quotes and writings by the students to express their grief.

"He embodied the soul, the spirit of this school," explained assistant principal Michael Agee before the memorial service. Russell taught history to freshman, sophomore, juniors and seniors and coached the freshman soccer team. He began teaching at the high school in 1965 after getting his master's degree in education from the University of Missouri.

He is survived by his wife Linda, his three sons Scott and Jeff Russell of Pacific Grove and Tony Boyd of Carmel and five daughters, Sara and Mallory of Pacific Grove and Cindy, Patty and Angela Boyd of Carmel.

Russell was born in San Francisco on Feb. 2, 1942.

He finds the answers to problems may just be blowing in the wind

By DAVID LELAND

LIFE IS just a breeze for Carmel resident Jon Raggett.

He is one of only a handful of scientists worldwide dealing with the wind's cause and effect on stationary structures. In slightly more than a decade since its founding, Raggett's West Wind Laboratory has been involved in aerodynamic investigations from locales as diverse as San Francisco and Taiwan to Europe and North Africa.

"Basically, we study wind-related problems of anything that doesn't fly," says Raggett, who lives at Carmel Point with wife Tory and son, George, 17. Another son, Mark, 18, is now attending the University of California at San Diego.

Currently Raggett, along with fellow engineers Robert Scanlon of Johns Hopkins University and Gary Hart of UCLA, are testing the Golden Gate Bridge to determine if it could be modified to accommodate a lower deck for mass transit.

In 1962, bridge directors rejected an idea for mass transit travelling on the span, citing prohibitive weight problems.

But modifications on the bridge, lowering its weight by about 11,500 tons, have made the idea of an additional lower deck more feasible.

Using a scale model of a 300-foot section of the bridge, Raggett has spent the past few weeks searching for information in front of his wind tunnel housed in a building in downtown Carmel.

"It's something that you cannot do analytically," says Raggett, 45, as a giant fan pushes air, the equivalent of winds up to 116 mile an hour, toward the model.

Computers come into play when Raggett sends his information to Scanlon, who then runs the data simultaneously with 17,000 other equations to show how a real span would react to wind speeds.

"Indications are that, in general, it's better than the existing bridge," says Raggett of his new structure, adding that wind factors represent only one-tenth of the completed feasibility study.

RAGGETT'S CURRENT work is a logical progression, having been interested in aerodynamics since attending school in Carmel during the '50s.

After graduation from Carmel High School, Raggett took his undergraduate degree from Princeton University, master's degree at Stanford, and doctorate at Princeton.

Aptly, Raggett's doctoral dissertation was entitled "Modeling Problems in the Study of Bridge Flutter."

While wind has certainly been around since the beginning of time, it is only recently that its effects on structures have been examined in relationship to design.

"It's (wind studies) new in the past 25 years," says Raggett, who took over now-retired Steve Sassoon's Carmel civil engineering firm in 1978. "Before that, nobody did anything about it."

Raggett cited two classic failures in aerodynamic structures that helped to generate interest in the field of wind study.

The first problem occurred in 1940, when the less-than-a-year-old Tacoma Narrows Bridge collapsed after 39 miles per hour winds caused unstable oscillation.

The second mishap took place in 1969, when the 70-story John Hancock Building in Boston was buffeted by winds and a third of its window panes blew out.

It soon became apparent to architects that wind factors could contribute to a more efficient design.

Criteria developed by West Wind using wind speeds from historical data includes:

- How wind speeds will affect pressure on glass.
- How natural ventilation can be built into the design. For example, a Hawaiian hotel that wanted to use natural breezeways, rather than traditional air conditioning, utilized Raggett's expertise.
- Environmental studies examining how wind patterns will affect outdoor areas, such as swimming pools and dining patios.

Working on two hotels in Kaula Bay, Hawaii, one of the windiest spots in the United States, Raggett was able to design comfortable outdoor living spaces.

- Aeroelastic studies to see how winds will cause a building or structure to move or sway.

"There was no formal wind study performed on the Golden Gate Bridge," says Raggett, of the span's adaptability to the elements. "They were just lucky."

In Los Angeles, Raggett's lab found that the structural frame of a 27-story high-rise would operate more efficiently if designs were changed.

The result: a $100,000 savings for the contractor.

- Industry studies. Raggett is currently studying wind factors for a French research group that will ascertain how super tankers will affect docks after they are moored.

A World Without Boundaries

By PHILIP NESWITZ

"WE WOULD LIKE to share with you our 'Escapade' through the Monterey Peninsula...a world without boundaries, a world of romance and elegance but even more, a personal adventure and way of life."

So stated the program in its introduction to a fabulous event. "Escapades: A Fashion Show" was presented Saturday evening by the Monterey High School class of '90. It was the sixth annual fashion revue.

The Serra Ballroom at Monterey Conference Center was converted into an amphitheater with a simple, serene stage decorated with malachite obelisks embellished with white calla lilies. Emanating from the stage a T-shaped runway jutted out into the audience of more than 500 guests. A peaceful setting for what turned out to be an exciting and electrifying production.

The nine different scenes presented were: "Early Morning," "Brunch at Katy's," "Tour d'Monterey," "Sun 'n' Surf," "Late Lunch at The Doubletree," "Pacific Garden Mall," "Beach & Boardwalk," "Club Hopping" and "Majestic Evening."

Fashions for these scenes were worn by 32 young ladies and gentlemen of the current graduating class, each of whom gave a scintillating performance that a professional would have had difficulty matching.

Their exuberance excitement beauty and charisma were so stimulating that they held the audience bubbling with sheer joy and humor every second of the entire evening. (No snoozing took place in the audience at this affair.)

These young people possessed complete poise, as though they had studied the performing arts or graduated modeling career training. They were smooth as silk. With every body movement and each facial expression fresh, vivacious and enchanting.

Tom Horak, the commentator for the Escapades tour, gave a beautifully modulated dissertation that provided a quiet, chordal note in the background which melded with the lovely music.

Accolades go to the choreographers who added dance, touches of movement and quality that were the piece de resistance of each scene. Special commendations to the youth-oriented clothiers in Pacific Grove, Carmel, Monterey and Salinas for the selections offered to the youth of today. To Bijin Hair Studio goes a special thank-you for hair styles designed for this marvelous cast.

And, the most elaborate bouquet goes to the person with the most difficult task of all, the responsibility of putting the jigsaw puzzle together to create a masterpiece. We salute you, Linda Frye, director/producer and all-around genius in presenting a revue better than any Broadway show. You have earned and deserve the loyalty and affection of the graduating class.

And, finally, to the Class of '90 we wish each graduate a happy future in her or his pursuits after leaving Monterey High School. Bon voyage! Bon Chance!

(Philip Neswitz, who also took the photos accompanying this article, has attended many fashion shows in Paris, London, Florence, Milan, Berlin, New York, and Chicago during his long career in the fashion industry.)

CHRISS FIFE and Rachel Zimmerer were excellent models in the "Escapades" fashion show given by Monterey High School seniors. (Philip Neswitz photos.)

Inviting atmosphere is the focus of Shanty Malone's in the valley

By SUSAN BECK

"YOUR RETURN is our reward," says George Malone, owner of Shanty Malone's restaurant just past Quail Lodge on Carmel Valley Road. "It's very simple. If you come back, I know I'm doing the right thing."

Malone welcomes people to come out and experience for themselves the open and relaxed feeling of possibly the largest free-standing restaurant in the area. The first of four separate dining areas to choose from is where the live entertainment happens every Monday night from 5 to 8 p.m. Local musicians come to rehearse and the word is out that there is standing-room only.

All the other six days of the week from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m., or when the last customer leaves, jazz plays in the background. Its presence drifts through the other two very large dining areas that provide plenty of space between tables, ensuring privacy.

From these rooms you step out to an enormous patio that has a spectacular view of the mountains overlooking the valley. It's the perfect place to enjoy biscuits and country gravy for breakfast or spend a warm evening dining on Big Sur rockfish fresh from the pristine waters off the coast.

Ken Weeks, Malone's partner, is the chef and likes to do things honest. "Everything is made from scratch and fresh everyday. I had a very difficult time finding a turkey that wasn't injected with additives. The place lends itself to country cooking, and it's a pleasure to be cooking in my own style."

Weeks' previous experience includes cooking at the Beverly Hills Hotel in Los Angeles, and La Playa and Hog's Breath Inn in Carmel. Malone said that the Carmel Valley community is fortunate to have Weeks there. "I would not have gone into the venture without him."

"We designed the restaurant to have the feeling of a big living room where you can sit where you want and be private. There's no hurry here. I want people to come here and relax and enjoy their meal," said Malone.

The restaurant is for everyone, but with a focus on the retirement community of Carmel Valley. The idea is to spend a comfortable early evening dinner with live entertainment at reasonable prices, said Weeks.

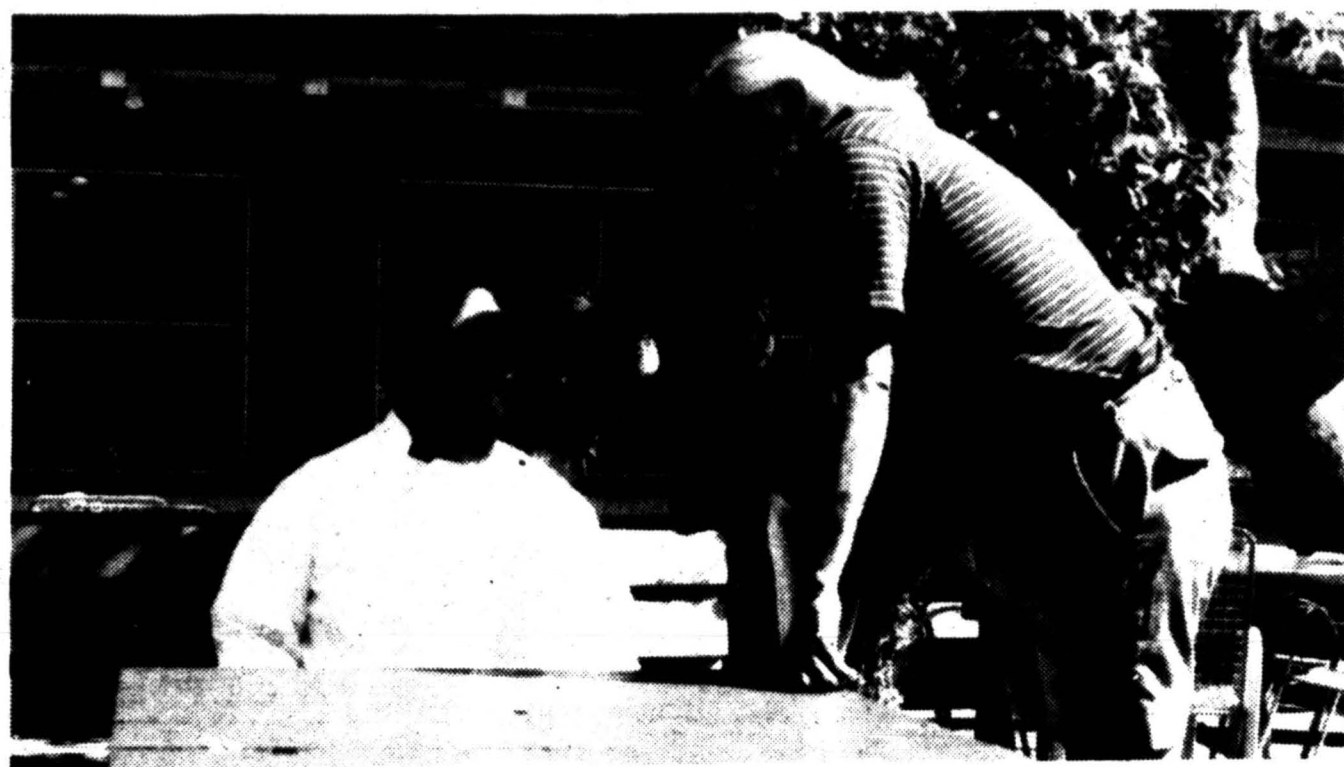

Shanty Malone's is located in the Valley Hills Shopping Center, Carmel Valley Road, Carmel Valley. For more information call 626-0604.

Mixing it up

ANN OLIVIER (right), executive director of the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce for the past four years, said that the April 26 chamber mixer at the Bank of America on Highway 1 and Rio Road is a traditional event that goes way back. "It's a way for chamber members to become acquainted with new business owners," she said. "It's also a way of advertising. We have a raffle and everyone donates something that represents their business. Our next mixer will be on June 19 at the Pacific Western Bank at the mouth of the valley at 5:30 p.m." Members sipped donated wines and tasted delicacies from local businesses at the mixer, held in the lobby of the bank.

30 seconds...and counting

ONE OF the zillions of catalogs I get is featuring something new: an earthquake detection alarm. For a mere $34.95 you can get a wall-mounted device that "effectively detects the sonic waves that precede a major earthquake." The pulsating alarm "affords up to 30 seconds of warning time before a quake of 5.0 or more...actually strikes."

What would you do in that 30 seconds?

ON A happier nature note: the flowers in this area seem to become more beautiful each year. One of my favorite sights (at almost any time of the year) is the display surrounding the Village Inn, at Junipero and Ocean. Another — this year in particular — is on Scenic Road as you approach the sharp curve at the north end of River Beach. That would be the four homes just before the curve — 26345 to 26263 Scenic. The colors are dazzling! Take the time to enjoy these gifts from nature and the property owners.

WHAT DOES someone traveling to Africa need to take along? Why, an insect swatter, of course. One with large holes "because the insects are big."

So said Antonia Verleye, enlivening the April meeting of the Carmel Community and Cultural Commission. The lucky recipient of her gift? Linda Anderson, her fellow commissioner. Linda and Clayton, and their son, left for Africa the next day. They will be in Zimbabwe and Botswana, and the highlight of their trip should be a coming together with their daughter, who has been in Africa with the Peace Corps for 19 months. "We are certainly hoping to make the connection," Linda said. "She's in a remote village in Zaire, and communication is difficult, but we are counting on it."

SPLENDID SENIOR

Today's Splendid Senior has four legs and long ears. He has been seen in this area several times and is presently appearing (well, sort of) on the stage of the Wharf Theater. Technically, he's not a "senior" as he first appeared — in New York — in 1944. But his best pal, Elwood P. Dowd, in the person of Carmel resident Jim Jensen, is a senior, and a splendid one. "Ah," you say, "she's talking about 'Harvey'!" Indeed. Harvey, the play, and Harvey, the six-foot rabbit seen only by Elwood. (Although by the end of the play, many in the audience would insist that they, too have seen him.)

It's not easy, even for long-time, talented actor Jim Jensen, to bring Harvey to life for every performance. When the play was presented at the Wharf Theater some years ago, I had a small part in it and marveled nightly at Jim's ability to speak to Harvey and to include him in the stage "business" so naturally that he became a presence for all of us. His ability to do that, and to carry many other challenging roles on the stages of various peninsula theaters is based upon experience that began when he was a theater arts major at San Jose State. Carmel can certainly claim him as its own: he came here with his family in 1938, as a seventh-grade student at Sunset School. After graduating from Carmel high he was in military service for a time, then went to San Jose.

Jim's early experience in the theater did not suggest the devotion to acting, and his success in this craft, that were to come. He took himself to southern California to audition. Then: "I was terrified; I couldn't talk!" Jim saw himself as "a small-town kid" who couldn't, or didn't want to, cope with big-town theater. So he retreated — for a time.

This and That

Taking a job with a savings and loan company in San Francisco, he gradually found his way back to the stage, working with the Ross Valley Players and a theater in Sausalito. When he decided to return to his much-loved Carmel, he found himself at an "awkward age" for actors.

"That's not just for teenagers," Jim told me. "For male actors, it's that time between juvenile and character roles." Fortunately for Monterey Peninsula theater-goers, Jim found a mentor, Tony Fields, whose Studio Theater would become home for Jim for some years to come, even after Fields sold the theater to the Curtis family. His first role there was in Agatha Christie's Ten Little Indians.

Returning to the subject of character roles, Jim said, "They are hard to do without getting into caricatures." Some of his favorite roles have been Fagin in Olivier Twist, Polonius in Hamlet, and a one-man show with Jim as Clarence Darrow. ("A rare treat that director Nick Zanides afforded me.")

And Elwood P. Dowd. "I'm very fond of Elwood. He's a different kind of person, not demanding. It's unusual to have a leading role that is not an aggressive character. With Elwood, things happen around him but he doesn't see himself as causing them; he is usually reacting, instead."

Does Harvey become a real presence for Jim? You judge. "I'm used to making eye contact with other actors on stage. Sometimes I'm aware of missing eye contact with Harvey. I want to tell him not to turn away!"

Others are similarly affected. For example, the Carmel restaurateur who asked Jim, at a post-performance gathering, if he should set a place for Harvey.

Jim worries about getting too emotional in this role, overdoing it. "Elwood needs to be soft and mild, like Harvey. Restraint is a key word for Elwood so things work. He doesn't want to cause any friction." For Jim, the heart of the play is that Elwood has found the only person who doesn't try to make him someone else; "my best friend, Harvey."

Jim Jensen's love affair with the theater continues unabated as he gets into his sixties. And keeps growing. Even with Harvey, he sees that growth between the last time he played the role of Elwood P. Dowd and this current production. "As I get older I can relate more to Elwood's philosophy," this thoughtful man says. "Like Elwood, I have divorced myself from a lot of the details of living. Elwood wouldn't — and I wouldn't — make waves."

Even when he isn't so happy with a role, he always comes away with something of value. "I've learned at least a little more about the craft of acting. It's a privilege to be able to have the opportunity to perform, especially on an amateur level."

Jim's "outside" activities — to earn a living so he can continue to take advantage of those opportunities to perform — have included banking, court recording, and back office work for property owners. Now, at 62, he's moving into something new: he recently gained his real estate sales license. But his primary love remains acting; "I wouldn't hesitate for a minute to give up everything else if I could eke out a living on the stage. I've never been able to deny that drive."

For about 15 years, Jim has shared a home with Harrison

Shields, himself a fine actor and director. I asked Jim if there were problems when — as with the current production of Harvey — he comes home after a rehearsal or performance to face the director of his play. "I can be quiet during rehearsals," Jim said, "but Harrison has to put up with my ranting and raving after." Harrison lets it go on, he said. And yes, it can be a strain. But speaking as a fellow actor and friend of both, I can say that it doesn't interfere with the ability of these two talented men to come up with splendid productions.

REC LEAGUE SOCKO By Pat Lenz

Wind-blown day

"CARMEL SOCKO and the Blustery Day" would be a good title for the games held Sunday, April 29.

The league had to go on the road because of the Big Sur International Marathon, so the games were played at Candlestick Park South. The wind picked up in the afternoon and some players are still missing. They were last seen floating over the left field fence, if anyone finds them please return them to the recreation department.

Sports Barn Gives a Little Extra

Sports Barn 9 — D.C. Defenders 4: It was only fitting that the best game of the year went extra innings before it was settled.

The Defenders took an early lead and held on until the fifth inning when the Sports Barn tied the score at 3. It stayed that way until the ninth when with two outs the Sports Barn scored two runs to go ahead. Then with two outs in the bottom of the ninth the Defenders scored two to tie, but had a runner thrown out at home to end the inning.

In the 10th the Defenders' excellent defense fell apart and the Sports Barn scored four to knock the Defenders from the unbeaten ranks.

Bully Batters Ball in Barroom Brawl

Bully III 23 — Jack London's 16: Jack London's jumped on Bully III early but couldn't hold on to the lead as Bully came from behind for the big win.

Down by eight runs in the third, Bully scored first six then five then four runs in the next three innings to secure the win. Bully III continued their consistent hitting.

Bells Belts Down Slammers

Bells Bombers 19 — Sade's Slammers 3: Bells, behind a seven-run third inning, put their game away early, starting the

In his spare time, Jim does a lot of walking, and works hard to keep his roses going, through the drought. He does not yearn for a big professional role, although he has done a number of commercials. Why not? "If I got a big professional role, I couldn't come back here and do what I enjoy so much. I wouldn't want to jeopardize my amateur standing!"

Fortunately for local theater-goers. And for Elwood's best pal, Harvey.

inning with seven consecutive hits to put Sade's down.

Myers Takes No C.R.A.P.

Myers Painting 18 — C.R.A.P.S. 11: Myers pulled out its second win by beating a tough C.R.A.P.S. team. The game was close through the first five innings until Myers put together a six-run sixth inning to go past C.R.A.P.S. for the win.

The teams from Highlands Inn and CYC took the week off to run in the marathon, they hope to be back next week. The Energizers remain the lone unbeaten team.

California classics

SPRING IS in full swing and previous social plans are blooming as rapidly as the cherry and wisteria trees and beautiful irises in private gardens around.

Not only is it time to enjoy your own garden but to tour others. 'Tis a time for teas, picnics, special cuisine, studio tours, annual luncheons, honors and hoopla. A time to dress up in bright spring colors and meet with others for a chat, for fun and for fund-raising.

A garden setting worthy of a European beer fest will be in place tomorrow night in the Sheraton ballroom for a hoped-to-be annual benefit for public radio station KAZU and the Big Sur Land Trust. Premium beers, specialty brews of microbrewers, fine non-alcoholic juices and beer, and hors d'oeuvres by award-winning chefs will be served from 6:30-9:30 p.m. Then the Boppa Nova Band plays for dancing starting at 9:30. You must be over 21 to purchase tickets ($35). Book with Center Stage Ticketing or purchase at the door.

This coming weekend will be filled with outdoor and indoor parties and tours. If you are interested in Bonsai, roses, rhododendron, and herb gardens (and, who isn't?), as well as shopping for garden-related gifts, and look at art in a lovely home setting, then La Mirada is the answer.

"Springtime at La Mirada" is set for Saturday and Sunday, May 5 and 6. That means garden and house tours from 10-3 and garden lectures at 10:30 and 1:30 Saturday and at 1:30 on Sunday. A regular gold mine, or, flower mine, I should say. A flower mine for the eyes and heart as well as the mind. Great Mother's Day gift idea.

Sunday afternoon the board of trustees of the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History presents a preview of the Frank H. Meyer (1899-1956) Exhibit at 2:30. Mr. Meyer's daughter will be attending. And, from 2-4 Sunday afternoon, "dancin'" on the Terrace of the Park Lane, Monterey. Enough said regarding the Alliance on Aging Tea Dance given in celebration of Older Americans Month.

The Cal Poly Swing Band will swing on the terrace for the Tea Dance. My! Oh my! Wine, tea buffet go with the $10 admission. Proceeds will support employment, food, assistance services to Monterey County Seniors and low-income individuals.

You will have fun, learn something about cooking, and, no doubt, have a few good laughs when Kiwanis Club of Carmel-by-the-Sea presents Martin Yan at the Monterey Sheraton May 9. As you have seen on television's Yan Can Cook, Martin is not only a great chef but a great entertainer as well. So, hook up with Center Stage for the $40 tickets (they are going fast).

Another Mother's Day gift idea, Ms. Joan Fontaine — both then and now — will be present at the Dream Theater May 13. A screening of the classic Academy Award-winning film Rebecca with Sir Laurence Olivier is the "then." Ms. Fontaine in person will be the "now."

She will be honored at a reception at 1:45 for her contribution to cinema, with screenings at 2:30 and her dedication to the humanitarian world, especially to the Salvation Army which will benefit from this Mother's Day Event. Alan Weber and John Harris, Dream Theater owners, are donating use of the theater with all proceeds going to the Salvation Army program for homeless mothers and children. Tickets at $25 may be purchased at the Salvation Army Community Center in Seaside or Center Stage Ticketing.

"May the splendors we receive tonight go a long way in helping to produce our wish list tomorrow," wrote Mary Kaye Watts, general chairperson for the "Splendors of Spring" auction given by the Padre Parents Club of Carmel High School Saturday evening.

Auctioneer Greg Cole (a parent), was assisted by Craig Johnston, both of whom are golf coaches at Carmel High. Craig is the varsity football coach as well. Carmel High soon will have a new principal, temporarily, that is. Mike Thomas paid $500 for Marie Ishida to step aside for one day while he takes over her position. Just in case the job tires him out, Mike bought an overnight stay at Stonepine to recoup his strength.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance Baldwin purchased a week in Hawaii for $2,000, so they are all set when they feel in need of a vacation. Ron Goerss won the Eldon Dedini cartoon and Mr. and Mrs. David Watts took the Steve Crouch photo home with them to go with the tropical fish sculpture by Ken Wiese Sr. Pam Spagna paid $1,400 to enjoy a beautiful Miguel Dominguez painting and Bill Dorey will have fun at a five-minute grocery shopping spree at Albertson's. He hopes to fill his basket with $300 worth of food — or more.

"Splendors of Spring," the first auction night for the Padre Parents Club, was held in the Carmel Youth Center's all-purpose room. Everyone had a good time so look for the event again next year.

If you had wandered into Hidden Valley last Saturday evening you wouldn't have recognized it. You would have thought you were in Tahoe or a mini Las Vegas. Slot machines and a bar were set up in an adjoining tent and inside gaming tables were in action underneath black and white balloons floating above.

Shimmering silver formed the backdrop for a stage that held prizes and backed by cards listing prizes that were announced every half hour by Kathleen Ebright Tarp.

Black and white placards dangled from the ceiling listing sponsors of the gaming tables: Merv Griffin, Village Market, Gamblers maintained their strength by going to the lavish buffet table of hot and cold food and later to a long table filled with beautiful rich desserts. All were prepared and donated by the generous board members.

Top Monte Carlo Night prize winner, Elizabeth Gable, had her pick of all the prizes. And, what do you think she selected? A night at Ventana! Next, Chris Dartch decided the sports package was for him; Randy Randazzo won a weekend in Reno and Vanessa Ramel will spend a romantic night at Stonepine.

All-in-all it was an evening of fun, a gathering of neighbors who would like to see each other more often.

The board of directors of the YWCA invited special friends to a "Traditional Silver Tea" in the Pebble Beach home of Patricia and Gerard Rivette. The spacious home provided a lovely ambience that was so open that it seemed to bring nature inside.

Kathy McAdara, executive director of YWCA, is pleased that the organization is reaching more people in need of the services offered. She told me, "There is a 20 percent increase in shelter residents and a 40 percent increase in crisis calls." That also means that the YWCA needs more support.

The shelter helps to ease the pain for women and children in abusive family relationships. There are many needs and many plans to fulfill them. At the same time, the Y is trying to pay off the mortgage on the headquarters at 801 Lighthouse (Maraposa Bldg).

If you were lucky enough to have had a mother who made your accidental hurts feel better, you may wish to remember her with a check to the YWCA for children who aren't that lucky. This is a grassroots effort to assist those in need.

The striped tent was billowing on all sides as high winds whipped around. People dashed inside frantically as though they feared being swept up in the air like helpless marionettes. However, such weather didn't wither the spirits of the supporters of All Saints' Day School.

The Third Annual Spring Silent Auction was held in a tent adjacent to the Carmel Valley Country Club at Quail Lodge. Dinner and the live auction followed in the dining room of the clubhouse. Topiary plants were nurtured into garden basket shapes and filled with spring plants for living centerpieces on the tables (to be sold at the end of the evening).

The auction items were knockouts. Especially the 29 items sold by Roy Cianolini. Hank Ketcham was there to autograph the first Dennis The Menace book he published back in 1952. Reid Woodward was lucky enough to win it for only $275. Going into the art gallery of Dr. Patrick Keeley is an original autographed "Sunday Proof" of Dennis. A great art addition for only $1,400.

The highest bid of the evening was offered by Sally and Vaughn Feather for a flight to Napa and a weekend at the beautiful Draper Vineyards. The Feathers will take another couple with them for a fabulous weekend of pampering by a butler, chauffeur and two maids. I ran a video of the beautiful hillside vineyard on one of my KSBW TV-8 weekly news spots. My! What an exotic setting.

Because the Feathers were the top bidders of the evening they receive the privilege of naming the school drive for one year. You'll have to keep an eye out to see what name they choose.

Pamela and Mike Smith's bid for a week in Hawaii was the second highest bid of the evening at $1,800 and another at $1,800 was made by Ted and Ilona Leidig for the "Super Bowl Bonanza" with tickets, autographed football, photos of Joe Montana and lunch with 49ers kicker Mike Cofer.

The Silent Auction Extravaganza contained sections such

the Shake-speare Festival production. This was followed by a brief but heated discussion on the Shake-speare authorship questions and detailed information on the case of Edward de Vere, 17th Earl of Oxford.

The Heron Society of the Forest Theater is the fund-raising and support group of the "Carmel Shake-speare Festival" and you are invited to join them. The fall program will include a production of Alice in Wonderland, Poetry Amidst the Pines, as well as the Bard's classic.

Members of The Boys Choir of Harlem who performed at Sunset Center recently, musically and personally charmed their way into the hearts of everyone who came to hear them.

The choir (founded in 1968), is sponsored by Pepsi Cola for the 1989-90 season and they have performed throughout the USA and Europe. In 1980 the choir was the subject of an Emmy Award-winning documentary.

The concert program in Carmel was a selection of Haydn, sacred cantatas by Bach, traditional hymns, Negro spirituals, jazz and popular music by Gershwin, Duke Ellington and Stevie Wonder.

Following the concert, which was sponsored by The Monterey Chapter of NAACP and Friends of Sunset Center, the choir members were served a sit-down dinner.

Seaside and Carmel Mayors Lancelot McClair and Jean Grace introduced the young men to members of the audience who attended a reception in their honor.

Ryan Rqos blasted a 3-run homer, hit 3-for-4 and doubled when Pine Inn topped Vessey's 14-3 on April 28. Laith Agha was 4-for-5, homered and doubled twice. Chas Swallow, departing the team to move with his family to New Orleans, added yet another home run to the win, hit 2-for-3, and allowed only one hit in three innings on the mound. PI's Joe Silverie hit 3-for-4. Ben Armbrust, Jon Smith, and R.J. Minard doubled for Vessey's; Avner Bibliarz and Michael Leen also hit well. V's fielder Marc Jolley provided solid defense.

ROOKIE SOFTBALL: The Carmel Maple Leaves crushed the Toro Park Rainbows on April 28, 14-3. Courtney Connell hit 3-for-4; Shannon McNamara drove in two runs; Kalli Green scored twice for the winners. Kiera McNamara was sharp at first base. Toro Park highlights included four good innings by pitcher Nicole Wright (who hit 2-for-2), and a 2-run homer by Lindsay Butler. The Maple Leaves were especially happy to welcome back Coach Steve Smith one week after open heart surgery!

NOSTALGIA THEME FOR CARMEL HIGH CONCERT

The Carmel High Music Department, under the direction of Richard Robins, will present "Nostalgia" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 10 at Sunset Center in Carmel.

The concert marks the culmination of four years of music study for graduating seniors at Carmel High. Students voted to perform their favorite selections from past concerts, including: Bugler's Holiday, Novena, Fantasy on an American Sailing Song, and Amparita Roca by the Concert Band; Pachelbel Canon and Eine Kleine Nachtmusik by the Chamber Orchestra; and Carmel Jam Blues, Oop Bop Sh-Bam, and In a Mellow Tone, by the Jazz Ensemble.

The concert hold special meaning and memories for students, teachers, administrators and parents because four years ago the CHS Music Department was revived, Robins hired as music director and 23 students were enrolled. The first concert "New Beginnings" premiered in December 1986 with Rep. Leon Panetta as the first guest performer.

Since then enrollment has more than doubled and the quality of the concerts have improved. Many students from the original group will perform their "farewell" performance.

A reception to honor the musicians will follow the performance. Donations accepted. For more information call Robins at 624-1821.

PENINSULA RESIDENTS TO RECOUNT EXPERIENCES IN SOVIET UNION

"What's Going on in Russia?" will be the question for nine Monterey Peninsula students and teachers at a Monterey Hotel Resort luncheon next Monday, May 7.

The four high school students and five teachers, who just returned after an exciting two-week visit in Moscow, Minsk and Leningrad, were sponsored by The New Forum. They represented all seven local high schools.

The returnees will tell about the climax of their visit April 22, when they joined Earth Day celebrants in Leningrad in planting giant redwood tree seedlings from Carmel Valley, and appeared on prime time TV news, viewed by 200 million.

The students and teachers planted redwoods in all cities they visited, and found that their hosts everywhere were touched by the "gifts of friendship."

They will also tell about standing in food store lines with Soviet friends, who told them, "We buy what we can, you buy what you want." Impatience with the speed of reform seems to be the prevailing mood, the returnees report.

They will share their personal views of what ordinary Russians think — and say — about General Secretary Gorbachev, the progress of "perestroika," and the new meanings of "glasnost."

Reservations for the luncheon at the Monterey Hotel Resort (next to MPC, formerly the Hilton), can be made by calling 625-9967 or writing The New Forum, P.O. Box 22214, Carmel, 93922.

TRAINING AND ORIENTATION SCHEDULED FOR NEW HOSPICE VOLUNTEERS

Hospice of the Central Coast, a Medicare-certified hospice serving the Monterey Peninsula, Salinas Valley and parts of San Benito County, will present a series of training and orientation sessions for new volunteers beginning May 8.

Hospice provides health care and emotional support for patients with life-threatening illnesses and their families.

"Volunteers are always needed to help deliver Hospice services to the people who need them," says Laurette Toldi, director of Hospice's volunteer program and its Resource Center in Monterey. "They are an integral part of the Hospice care team."

"Some volunteers provide patient transportation to and from medical appointments, or they give information and support to the public," said Toldi. "Others provide respite care to families and caregivers, assist in light tasks, or provide wonderful human support to families and patients."

"We find out what a volunteer is interested in and where their skills might be utilized best," she said.

The first part of the 25-hour training program, which runs over four weeks, begins with an orientation on Hospice. The second phase involves training in active listening, assisting seriously ill patients and their families, and using community resources.

"It's important to attend the full program to become a Hospice volunteer," says Toldi.

Each session is held at the Hospice Resource Center, 1015 Cass St., Monterey. For more information on the training, contact the Center at 649-1772.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

Taking naps doesn't necessarily demonstrate laziness or senility. On the contrary, sleep researchers find that taking naps is a healthy practice that pays off in optimum vigor and other benefits. And the researchers turned up some surprising facts about who does the most napping: More than 50 percent of college students nap regularly because they don't get enough sleep at night and their daytime schedules permit napping, according to a survey by Dr. David Dinges of the Institute of Pennsylvania Hospital and the University of Pennsylvania.

***
Olen Miles, of Driftwood, Texas, was 72 when he organized the Texas Baptist Men Retirees. Purpose: To help poor congregations build their churches. That was 10 years ago, and since then the group has helped build more than 200 churches. Once a congregation is chosen for a project, letters go out to the volunteer retirees telling the location and starting date. So far, Miles says, enough workers have turned up each time to do the job.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

The pursuit of happiness

Carmel Pine Cone
April 29, 1982

In the Declaration of Independence, we read these words, "We hold these truths to be self evident; that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Madison Avenue and its advertisers on T.V., the radio and in the press tell us that it is easy to find happiness — all we have to do is to buy and eat bubbly bran for breakfast, brush our teeth with Pearly Paste or shop at a certain shop for your sports jacket and we will have it made. Why, then, does happiness, genuine happiness, seem so elusive?

Man was made for happiness and not only do we have an inalienable right to pursue it — we have a compulsion to seek it.

However, there is an axiom that the more we seek happiness, the less chance we have of finding it. Happiness is a free gift of God and if we do not get it from Him, we do not get it. While we are busy about God's business, like serving our neighbor above ourselves, happiness will steal quietly into our lives. We only look closely to see that our human ways of searching for happiness are failures.

So the search for happiness is not a question of our way or God's way — it is God's way of nothing. It's that simple — it's the only way it works. So start at once to give service and you'll get more than you bargained for — you'll end up a happy man.

John Cheney wrote:

"The happiest heart that ever beat was in some quiet breast

That found the common daylight sweet,

Street painting to be conducted by city crews

Any questions or problems should be addressed to the Carmel Public Works Department at 624-3543.

CHS test scores on the upswing

CARMEL HIGH School officials are quite pleased with their seniors' state test results, which show a quantum leap over last year's scores.

Given last December to 92 percent (154 students), of the class, the California Assessment Program (CAP) measures reading and mathematics and provides information about a school's educational program.

After raising reading scores by 36 points during the past year, Carmel High now ranks in the 98th percentile statewide. Last year the school ranked in the 94th percentile.

In mathematics, where scores were raised by 26 points over last year's scores, the school now stands in the 96th percentile statewide, compared to the 89th percentile one year ago.

Carmel High School Principal Marie Ishida said the test results need to be tempered with an overall view of the school's resources.

"We're extremely pleased with our results, of course," she said. "But this really is only one measurement of the success of our school."

Ishida added that test results tend to fluctuate from year to year depending upon the academic prowess of the senior class, although teachers were tutored by an independent consultant this year in how to prepare students for the writing portion of the test.

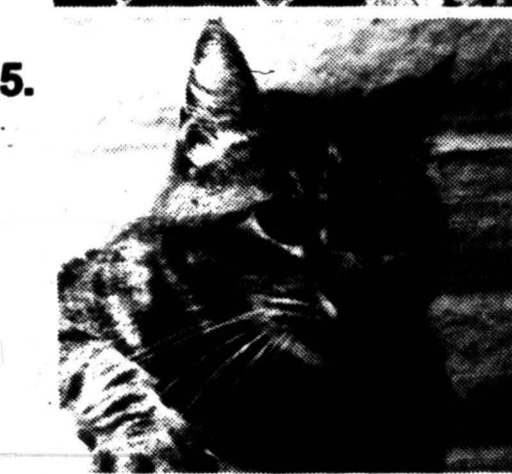

With that in mind, high school officials are beginning to examine similar test scores of eighth-graders entering the school.

After looking for weaknesses, the school will attempt to prepare students for the CAP during their tenure at the school.

"We want to see how much of an impact we can make," she said. "This is a four-year process."

You don't have to be an American to die of a heart attack.

You also don't have to overeat. Or consume excessive amounts of cholesterol. Or ignore high blood pressure. Or smoke. But that's what a large segment of this country's population does. And that's one reason the United States has the highest incidence of heart attack in the world. At the American Heart Association, we're trying to help Americans change the way they live. And die.

Restorative powers of herbs charted by author/designer

By ANNE PAPINEAU

HERBALIST, AUTHOR Jeanne Rose doesn't really believe in coincidences — but then again...

It was 21 years ago that fate intervened and changed the direction of her life. Her memory of that May afternoon remains sharp.

ARTS & LEISURE

"In 1969, I was driving south from Napa, and my 1956 Porsche speedster went out of control. The gearshift broke off at the base," she remembers. "I had a choice of running off the mountain or into a cliff. I bashed myself and my passenger up. I was paralyzed for six months."

Her "lovely eggplant Porsche" was shattered, and for the time being, so was her life.

But Rose used that period of enforced idleness to explore the curative powers of herbs. And the subject for her experiments was herself.

"I was paralyzed and visiting the UC Medical Center, unable to move the right side of my body. I started putting together mixtures from a formula made for the Queen of Hungary to cure her paralysis 500 years ago," she explains. "My therapist started applying it, and I slowly got better, using this 500-year-old rosemary oil formula.

Rosemary oil has a 2,000-year history of healing muscular tissue."

A publisher approached Jeanne Rose about producing a book on herbs. The result, Herbs & Things — A Compendium of Practical and Exotic Herbal Lore, is still in print, a classic in its field. Rose calls it "a working notebook about my life." It is also the first of 10 books about herbs she has written or co-authored.

"One's whole life is spent studying and learning. I thought I would become a marine biologist, and I became an herbalist," she says with a wry laugh. "And I practice what I preach. I'm definitely an urban herbalist. I live right in the middle of San Francisco, and keep a garden 75 feet long, 25 feet wide."

For most of the '60s, however, Rose was a Big Sur resident. She is still influenced by that region, and pays regular visits to herb-bordered spots along the coast.

"The '60s were a time of natural foods and natural vitamins in food and plants, plus natural treatments," she recalls.

Big Sur stimulated Rose to investigate plants as a healing resource. She began to assemble a personal library on the subject, which has since flowered into thousands of volumes.

And she also turned her creative efforts to designing "fabulous" clothes. Her creations were worn by the colorful members of the San Francisco bands whose music defined the '60s.

"I designed for all the San Francisco groups: Jefferson Airplane, Grateful Dead, Big Brother and the Holding Company, The Rascals. On the side, I concocted my little herbal treatments, so whenever they said they had something wrong, I would try to figure out something to give to them, at least mainly to my friends," she says.

The accomplishments of this herbalist/designer were profiled in a 1969 article in The Village Voice.

"She wrote half the article on the clothes I

MARINE BIOLOGIST, clothing designer, herbalist, author — Jeanne Rose has pursued many fields in her diverse career, but is now recognized for her shelf of books about her-balism. She will attend a booksigning and reception Sunday, May 6 at Herbal Effect in New Monterey.

Cherry Foundation showcases several artists

AN EXHIBIT of ceramic sculpture, black and white photography and acrylic paintings will open Saturday, May 5 at the Cherry Foundation.

The photographs by Blaine Ellis will be paired with James Kachler's recent profusion-fired ceramic sculpture. Jane Stile's elaborately patterned ceramic eggs will be shown with Jim Casteel's acrylic paintings. The works can be seen through May 26.

Influenced by Indian pottery in upstate New York and mechanical engineering, James Kachler has been a potter and taught ceramics for 18 years.

Kachler's current forms frequently combine the fluidity of traditional raku with the design elements of mechanical engineering.

In addition to photographing the caves — or Sassi — in southern Italy and the megalithic ruins on the islands of Malta, Blaine Ellis has made numerous photographic excursions to the Yucatan Peninsula, the Oaxaca Valley in Mexico as well as to the cave dwellings in China, Europe and the American southwest.

On the simplest level, Ellis' photographs are documents of caves and monasteries and megaliths from around the world; at the same time, he responds to the mystery and timeless quality of Mexico, Malta and the American Southwest with a brooding, contemplative lens.

"Over the years, my work in photography has focused upon the special relationship between ceremonial architecture and the land. To observe, to comprehend and to present, in visual refrains, the beauty of the world has been my inspiration," says Ellis.

Jane Stile's delicate egg-shaped forms are the result of research into the ability of porcelain to be worked thinly and combined with crystals of glass and glaze.

A resident of Carmel Valley with a degree from Chicago Art Institute, Stile controls the fine shape through hand molding which allows for freedom to explore unpredictable patterns within the shells.

Jim Casteel's portraits are a lexicon of art-historical signs and symbols, typically a mixture of the whimsical and the abstract. An artist for 29 years, Casteel calls his paintings "carvings" and employs palette knives, gesso and modeling paste.

A reception for the artists will be held Saturday, May 5 between 2:30 and 4:30 p.m. at the Cherry Foundation, Fourth and Guadalupe, Carmel.

For more information, call 624-7491.

JAMES KACHLER of Carmel Valley will display recent ceramic forms at the Cherry Foundation Gallery beginning Saturday, May 5. A reception for the artists will take place 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. The Cherry Foundation is located at Guadalupe and Fourth in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

BLAINE ELLIS' black and white photographs of the monasteries of southern Italy and Malta will be on display through May 26 at the Cherry Foundation. Included in the exhibit will be the ceramic sculpture of James Kachler and Jane Stile with mixed media paintings by Jim Casteel.

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Merry and mellow

NEWSBREAK: Vocalist Diane Reeves will handle the Monterey Jazz Festival slot made empty by the recent death of Sarah Vaughan. "Sarah can never be replaced," says fest honcho Jimmy Lyons. "I refuse to use the word 'replacement.' We're delighted that Miss Reeves will perform on the Sunday night program (9/23)."

In announcing that singer Margie Baker would appear at the fairgrounds Night Club during the 33rd annual festival, Jimmy made a point. "Dizzy will arrive early. He and Miss Baker have a long friendship based on mutual respect. I wouldn't be surprised if Diz pops up and plays behind Margie."

SO IT'S MAYTIME. Merry and mellow. The season's sweet excitements trill within the jazz scene too.

— Director Don Schamber notes that his Monterey Peninsula College Jazz Ensemble will play a free public concert on Sunday afternoon (5/6). Place: MPC Music Hall. Excellent pianist Jeff Haskell signed on as guest artist. Starts at three o'clock. "No-cost parking," says Don. The witty fellow likely will throw in a few freebie jokes.

— Over at Santa Cruz Auditorium, the sense of wonder will reign on Friday evening (5/4). Bobby McFerrin's new vocal ensemble — Voicestra — will share stage space with Tandy Beal Dancers. It's a one-time earthquake relief benefit for Miss Beal's refreshing crew. (Bobby and Tandy bagged an Emmy with their PBS-TV special entitled Voice/Dance. Bobby and Voicestra did original music which helped that AIDS quilt documentary score an Oscar win not long ago.) Ticketmaster. Auditorium box office. Additional data: 1-429-1324.

Voicestra mines World Music, African chants, Indian ragas, storytelling, new tunes based on the alphabet, contemporary vocal charts. McFerrin: "The spirit behind Voicestra is to produce new repertoire for vocal ensembles and eventually to commission other composers. My favorite, most inspiring times in concert always have been the impromptu moments onstage when the audience participates. At some point I began to realize that I wanted to work with other singers, and the idea of Voicestra seemed to be a natural development from these spontaneous group efforts."

Bobby and Voicestra will make their East Coast debut later this month at Boston Opera House.

— San Francisco vocalist Kitty Margolis will practice her brand of cookery on Thursday night (5/3) in the Sheraton's Monterey Bay Club. And it's top-drawer tenorman Red Holloway for Monday evening (5/7). No cover.

Others: Broadway Band (5/4), Oceana (5/5), Bob Phillips and Terry Miller (5/6), Jack and Ed Show (5/8), Tim Jackson's Real Time (5/9). Flutist Tim's the manager at Kuumbwa Jazz Center of Santa Cruz.

— The wide-ranging band Oregon will do two shows at Kuumbwa on Monday evening (5/7). At 7:30 and 9:30; $14 per; Center Stage Ticketing.

— Flutist Kenny Stahl will be the guest artist with Monterey Peninsula Jazz Orchestra at Mission Ranch Barn on Monday night (5/7). Still only $4 per at the door.

— Papa Jake and banjo pro Ed Erickson enliven Monday nights at the Sandbar and Grill on Monterey Wharf #2. Moss Landing Inn still hosts Moss Landing Jazz Band every Sunday afternoon.

— Cinco de Mayo's coming up fast. Los Lobos and salsa bandleader Willie Colon's gang will play an evening benefit concert at San Jose State University's new arena (5/5). That kicks off at seven o'clock. Outside the facility — Mexican food, folk dancers, strolling mariachis.

Various action groups will share proceeds. Including Teatro Campesino Performing Arts Building Fund and Next Door (works against domestic violence).

— Villa Montalvo books brilliant young saxist Christopher Hollyday as part of its Emerging Artist Series. He'll be there June 1 and at Monterey Jazz Festival come autumn.

— Carmen McRae plays Yoshi's in Oakland (5/16-19).

— Kimball's East (Emeryville) slates a hot double header. Jimmy Smith plus Les McCann (5/10-13). Jimmy's quartet will be at Kuumbwa (5/14).

NAMES: Carmel bassist Bryan McConnell found more than steady work in Japan. Back here to visit pals and pick up his favorite instrument, Bryan said he and jazz vocalist Ueda Hitomi were married at Nagoya.

"My new wife's an established artist over there," Bryan informed, "playing places like Osaka's Blue Note. She has been compared to Anita O'Day for years. We will make Nagoya our home. Japan offers plenty of jobs — in fact we met on a gig. We'll hit New York later in 1990. Just to look around, hear some music, see what happens."

• Mel Powell, who recently won the Pulitzer for composing, was still a teenager when he began his career with Benny Goodman. Today Mel heads up the composition faculty at California Institute of the Arts.

• Brazilian percussionist Helcio Milito continues at The Inn of Spanish Bay. His group has been delighting listeners in The Lobby Lounge.

• Keyboardist James Forkner and guitarist Joe Lucido have been working as a duo at such spots as Monterey's London Bridge Pub (638 Wave).

• The duo album of pianist Bill Mays and masterful bassist Ray Drummond (who came up hereabouts and started playing music in the public school system) draws critic-type raves. Standards catalyze what may be called inspired conversation between the two instruments. On the DMP label.

• Painter Bruni Sablan of Los Gatos specializes in jazz portraits and has many fans here. She signed with Polygram to render Erroll Garner for a re-release album scheduled in June. (The company and the Garner estate work together on a steady flow of such packages.) Bruni's first album illustration depicted vocalist Shanna Carlson last year. Leonard Feather likes Miss Sablan's work and played a strong part in nailing the Polygram assignment. Info on her jazz series: 1-354-2400.

• Branford Marsalis jammed with The Grateful Dead during a Manhattan concert. He: "These guys can play music. They have big ears and real chops. And they've got 18,000 tie-dyes dancing along — I'd never seen anything like it. They're into jazz, they know Coltrane, they're American musical icons."

CONCORD RECORDS taped Ernestine Anderson during guest shots with Gene Harris Superband and Capp/Pierce Juggernaut. And now the wondrous jazz singer (witty and gritty party blues...super-sensitive ballads) gets a big band package all her own. It's Boogie Down (CCD4407) with the Clayton-Hamilton Jazz Orchestra. Conductor and arranger John Clayton plays arco bass here. Drummer Jeff Hamilton blows minds whenever he turns on that purity of technique.

No throwaways amongst the eight vocals. Ernestine can be utterly convincing on the title track and One Mint Julep. Then she shifts gears and demands silent absorption via the superior love song called That Sunday That Summer. She's in grand form, granting the tight charts their due and claiming her own well-lighted ground. Purity meets purity. The entire session makes art sound easy.

HANDY TANDY — Dance troupe leader Tandy Beal was snapped in action by photographer Mark Wagner. Her company will join Bobby McFerrin and his brand new vocal group in concert. (See jazz column for full story.)

This disc contains a strong local flavor. Ernestine will appear, of course, at the next Monterey Jazz Festival. The band counts fest regulars within its membership — Herman Riley, Jack Nimitz, George Bohanon. Ray Brown (long a jazz educator at Cabrillo College) doubles on trumpet and flugelhorn.

Snooky Young, Oscar Brashear, Thurman Green, Rickey Woodard, on and on. The Harris Superband's so good that Concord could coast a bit if that were the organizational style. Development of the Clayton-Hamilton bunch bespeaks a continually active search for excellence.

Miss Anderson's soul romps and whispers, chuckles, meditates. Her time in the sun brings warmth to each listener.

St. Andrews Press announces publication of the latest poetry book by local jazz columnist and broadcaster John Detro. It's St. Joseph's Blues. His quest could turn our culture upside down. ## Young jazz musicians honored

By JOHN DETRO

PIANIST Ed Mendenhall of Robert Louis Stevenson and alto saxist Jason Silzle from Pacific Grove High stand tall today as repeat winners in Monterey Jazz Festival's High School All-Star Band competition.

They claimed their second such victory via closed auditions judged by professional jazzmen. Mike Shannon of Pacific Grove High won for his first time, nailing down the percussionist slot.

MJF's 20th annual statewide high school jazz tourney took place last weekend at the fairgrounds. Other area victors:

Piano — Carmel High's Matt Sagen. Second alternate.

Drums — (trap set) — Andy Coleman of Pacific Grove High. Alternate.

Alto sax — Eric Rasmussen of Seaside High. Second alternate.

Baritone sax — Jeff Maxson of Pacific Grove High. Second alternate.

Trombone section — Scott Larsen and Dave Burns from Aptos High.

Alternates make the roster in case other players can't take the All-Stars Japan Tour in August. This year the young artists will hit four cities over there, Nanao helping out most generously with travel expenses. All-Stars also will play the Sunday afternoon arena show during MJF's September run.

In other action, Hamilton High of Los Angeles (a three-year-old magnet arts school) won both Best Big Band and Best Combo. Teacher: Sid Lasaine.

Mark Bidleman's 11-member Soquel High unit captured honors as Best Vocal Group.

Youth Music Monterey and Berklee Music School (Boston) gave many scholarships on the basis of judges' evaluations.

Jeanne Rose writes of herbs

designed, and the other half was on my so-called magical remedies," Rose notes.

She observed that interest in herbal remedies has followed a cycle.

"In the early '70s, when my first book came out, there was a great, growing awareness in herbalism. And then the cycle went down, and I kind of dropped of sight myself. Now there's a whole new generation of people who never heard of me and now there's 20 times the number of herb stores and products than 20 years ago."

It is something of a publishing miracle that Rose's volumes have never gone out of print, and as she noted, she is winning new minds to herbal lore.

"The Herbal Guide to Food, for example, is not just your ordinary cookbook. There are sections on how to use herbs and plants in foods to cure yourself. There is garlic soup to aid digestion, sage-wrapped potatoes for gall bladder imbalance.

"This isn't just nonsense or folklore," she adds. "These plants have been documented over and over in scientific journals — add them to your diet."

One quality shared by each of Rose's books is their clarity — making them easy to understand and use. But the author offers one caveat.

"I have never harmed myself with herbs. But before picking wild plants, I would take an I.D. class at a community college. There are two similar plants in particular, comfrey and foxglove. But foxglove is poisonous when taken as a tea."

She is also a believer in using the essential oils of plants as a healing medium.

"If you take herbs, that's good. But if you take extracts in an alcoholic concentration, I don't recommend that. I suggest that when people take herbs, it should look, smell and taste like an herb, not some brown, glucky alcohol mix."

Rose is at work on a new book, Cosmetic Aromatherapy.

"But I'm not sure I'll continue with that title. It's the kind of book that should have fragrant pages, or at least a scented bookmark," she muses.

And she is a great believer in luxurious, herbally infused baths, as evidenced in her published writings.

"I'm really a great proponent of herbal baths for healthy skin and mental attitudes. I think bathing as a ritual is one of the things to maintain a healthy mental state.

"The last time I went to Big Sur I took a bath in a tub in an herb garden, in view of the ocean. I sat there rubbing myself with these plants, reading and listening to my host play music. This morning I ran a bath with melissa and orange oil, seaweed, foods that nourish not only yourself, but your spirit."

Jeanne Rose will be the guest of Herbal Effect in New Monterey on Sunday, May 6, for an informal discussion and booksigning. The reception is set 2 to 4 p.m. at the shop, located at 616 Lighthouse Ave. For additional information, call 375-6313.

MUSIC CORNER

Illuminating performance by Gyorgy Sandor

GYORGY SANDOR, one of the piano's elder statesmen, was the featured artist in the closing concert of the Keyboard Artist Series season in Carmel's Sunset Theater Sunday afternoon. In much the same type of conventional program which, only a few weeks ago, had all the earmarks of a graduation recital, Sandor who is an artist of vast experience, brought a quality of mastery and musicality to his choices which illuminated the true value of maturity in making music.

He began with the Busoni arrangement of the Bach chorale prelude, "Nun Komm der Heiden Heiland," and thereby set a standard of great and unusually sensitive dynamic beauty in any of the soft passages he encountered in the course of the concert. His gradations of expertly drawn tone colors and the clarity of the voice leading made this a memorable program opener.

Going on to Beethoven's "Sonata No. 32 in C Minor," op. 111, which was his last one of this form, the artist began solidly enough, but the rapid passages tended to blur. Sandor shone in the more reflective sections of the music. The second movement, a set of variations on a theme which was stated with quiet purity and continued with delicately thoughtful pianism, was commanding musically.

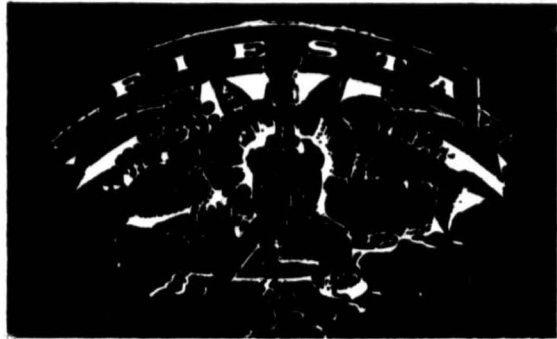

The Schumann "Symphonic Etudes" op. 13, are a rather luxurious set of romantic variations on a stately theme. Here too, the quiet, though full-toned statement had great validity. There was much excitement created in the later brilliant variations even though, as the climaxes built, the tone became dry and percussive and textual accuracy suffered. Sandor is at his best when playing below the grandiose dynamic levels he created in the later pages of the work.

In contrast, two Chopin Mazurkas were tender and lovely. A third one (Sandor did not announce his selection) has been used as ballet music and he made it sparkle and dance. The "Scherzo No. 2 in B Flat Minor" op. 31 by Chopin was truly memorable in its more ethereal episodes, but unfortunately, recordings have spoiled us into taking accuracy for granted and generally, the large agitato passages had some unexpected spice added into their noisy flight.

After regrouping musically through the playing of "Ondine" and "Masques" by Debussy, Sandor went on to give the West Coast premiere of a recently discovered piano version of the Intermezzo from the "Concerto for Orchestra" by Bartok. Somehow the piano version, which was excellently rendered, doesn't have the substance and colorful sound which Bartok created in the original instrumental setting.

The artist concluded the recital in breathtaking and impressive fashion playing "Funerailles" by Liszt. The dramatic slow introduction was played firmly and the funeral march theme was brought out with dignity and great depth of eloquence. It is built similarly to the Chopin march, though on a much grander scale. Sandor created a majestic edifice, full of emotion and here swept through the pyrotechnics of the huge climaxes with virtuosity and superior grasp and control.

His encores were two Scriabin etudes and the Brahms "Capriccio" op. 76, No. 2.

Works in Progress— Mini Plays and Selected Scenes

Playwrights and members of the Spring MPC/Fort Ord playwrighting workshops and actors from Fort Ord's Cabaret Theatre will present Works in Progress — Mini Plays and Selected Scenes. They will be staged at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 6, in the Cabaret Theatre. The theater is located at Fourth Avenue and Fourth Street, Fort Ord.

This spring's reading includes several dramatic incidents from the December invasion of Panama; a mother/daughter drama set in a last rites' hospital room; a serious comedy about an unemployed garbage man who goes on doing what he does best — collecting garbage; and a look at a contemporary "superwoman" and her hard choices.

The audience is invited to participate in the discussion that follows the program.

"Writing for the Theatre," a workshop led by San Francisco playwright Lee Brady, is offered each fall at Monterey Peninsula College and each spring at MPC's Fort Ord campus. The workshop is opened to both beginning and experienced writers and actors.

The Studio Theater on the Hartnell College campus is the setting for Picnic. Curtain is at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, May 4-5, and at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 6.

ON STAGE

Set among the aristocrats of pre-Revolutionary France, the play centers on Le Vicomte de Valmont, a cynical, pleasure-seeking seducer and his former mistress and co-conspirator, the Marquise de Merteuil. Mickie Mosley Moorer directs Stephen Moorer and Dorian Ellis in the lead roles.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, May 3-5.

Cafe seating opens one hour before showtime, with a variety of sandwiches, hors d'oeuvres, desserts, beer, wine and soft drinks available before the show and at intermission. The GroveMont Theater Arts Center is at 320 Hoffman (between Lighthouse and Hawthorne) in New Monterey.

Ticket price on Thursday is $8.50 general and $7 for students, seniors and military. Tickets on Friday and Saturday are $9.50 general and $8 for students, seniors and the military.

Advance tickets may be purchased through Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561. For reservations, call the GroveMont Theater at 649-6852.

Harvey

The Wharf Theater presents Mary Chase's classic comedy that takes its cue from a whimsical six-foot rabbit. Harvey is directed by Harrison Shields. The cast features Jim Jensen as Elwood P. Dowd and Gina Welch-hagen as Vita Louise Simmons.

Harvey plays at 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 8 p.m. Sundays through June 10.

Tickets are $10 general, $5 for children and students under 20.

The Wharf Theater is located at the end of Old Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey. For reservations, call 649-2333 or 372-1373.

A Fool's Paradise

There's arsenic, there's old lace, but in this classic English melodrama, it's an evil wife attempting to do in her wealthy husband because she loves another. Not to fear, "good" triumphs over evil in the end in A Fool's Paradise.

Corruption personified

STEPHEN MOORER portrays the Vicomte de Valmont, a French aristocrat bent on boudoir conquests in Les Liaisons Dangereuses. The Christopher Hampton play closes this weekend at GroveMont Theater.

Orchids displayed, sold during weekend show

THE CARMEL Orchid Society will host its Annual Orchid Show and Sale, Saturday and Sunday, May 5-6.

This two-day show and sale will be presented 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Crossroads Shopping Center, Rio Road off Highway 1, Carmel. There will be demonstrations of orchid potting and culture, corsage making and exhibitions of prize-winning plants. Orchid growers from all over California will be offering plants for sale.

Orchids have long been regarded as a "rich man's hobby." The society maintains that orchids can be as easy and fun to grow as roses or petunias.

Orchids belong to one of the largest families of flowering plants. So successfully have they evolved that they can be found on every continent except Antarctica. Many of the more than 40,000 different varieties can easily be grown on the Monterey Peninsula. They are inexpensive, hardy plants, and, when properly cared for, will reward their owner with a profusion of beauty.

This show is an opportunity to begin a collection or to add to one.

Further information is available from the Carmel Orchid Society at 899-4154.

HOW THIS RAKE CAN SAVE YOUR LIFE.

This simple garden tool is a firefighter. It can help you clear away brush and leaves that act like kindling around your home. And you. So if you live near the forest, do a little raking. And that's not all. Landscape your home with a fire retardant plant like ivy. Use spark arrester screens on your chimney and vents. And put fire retardant material on your roof and underneath your house where it is exposed. Because a forest fire burns more than trees. Remember. Only you can prevent forest fires. ## This is the child who can make the trade deficit disappear.

Only a child.

But, like all American children, Michael Oliveras, inventor of the Swivel Head Rest for airline travelers, is a very special child.

For our kids have a creative, inventive heritage second to none. Given a bit of encouragement, their touch of genius will one day create new jobs, new industries—and turn our trade deficit into a trade surplus.

The encouragement comes from an education program and contest called Invent America! It challenges our kids to exercise their native ingenuity, and turn their minds toward any problem they'd like to solve.

Just write Invent America!, 510 King Street, Suite 420, Alexandria, VA 22314, or call 703/684-1836.

We'll tell you more about Invent America! And explain why we believe America's future is in the hands of America's children.

INVENT AMERICA!

Bringing bright ideas out of young minds

Invent America! is a nonprofit program in partnership with business, industry and education. Call or write today to join this vital national effort.

It will be shown in Bambara with subtitles, Friday through Sunday, May 4-6. Film Comment calls it "simply the best African film ever made."

Pier Paolo Pasolini's The Gospel According to St. Matthew will be screened Wednesday, May 9. This 1964 film offers a fiercely faithful rendering of the life of Christ using only the scenes and words described by the disciple Matthew. It will be shown in Italian with subtitles.

Both films begin at 8:15 p.m. in S.F.B. Morse Auditorium at the Monterey Institute of International Studies, 440 Van Buren St., Monterey. Admission is $4 general, $3 for students and senior citizens. For information, call 626-1730.

Take a grand tour of the planets

The Monterey Institute for Research in Astronomy and Monterey Peninsula College present "Voyager and the Grand Tour of the Planets." This free lecture will feature Carolyn Porco of the Department of Planetary Sciences at the University of Arizona.

Voyager 2, skimming over the north pole of Neptune last August, completed its grand tour of the outer solar system and brought to an end humankind's first explorations of all the major planets. With the help of slides, Dr. Porco will revisit the highlights of this historic 12-year journey and examine the profound scientific implications of Voyager's discoveries at the farthest reaches of our solar system.

The free program will begin at 8 p.m. Saturday, May 5 in Lecture Forum 102 at Monterey Peninsula College, 980 Fremont St., Monterey. For details, call 375-3220.
